COUNTRY GOING CRAZY ON DIET PLAN SAYS WILL

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 12.—I should like to fly to Rome if it just wasn't for one thing. I wouldn't want Mussolini kissing me, I would be afraid he would bite me.

See where the Mayos at Rochester deny that they had anything to do with trying to put the country on grapefruit and lettuce for 18 days. They say the country is going crazy without their endorsement. Why should the Mayos prescribe a diet? There is more room to operate on a fat person than on a thin one.

Forty-five nations, including the United States, have objected to the new tariff, but not Reed Smoot.

BUTLER COUNTY WILL COMPLETE IMPROVEMENT OF PORTERSVILLE ROAD

Conference At Portersville
Last Night Results
In Decision

Road From Ellwood To Portersville To Be Entirely Improved In 1930

Good road enthusiasts of Lawrence County saw another dream realized on Thursday evening when at a joint dinner conference held in Portersville, between representatives of Lawrence and Butler County, arrangements were completed for the finishing of Route 350, between Ellwood City and Portersville.

Several days ago the commissioners of Lawrence County announced that they were ready to complete the road from Ellwood City to the Butler County line, leaving about a mile and a quarter in Butler County at the Portersville end.

"They Work Fast"

Butler County commissioners had previously said that when Lawrence County was ready to complete its share of the work that Butler County would do its share. Following a conference between Commissioner Thomas J. McCullough of Lawrence County, the commissioners of Butler County, Senator George T. Weingartner, and State Highway Engineer Thomas C. Frame, Commissioner J. W. Hutchison of Butler County made the following statement to the rest of the crowd gathered there:

"The Lawrence County people work fast, amazingly fast. When we agreed (Continued On Page Two)

Three Autos Burn In Garage Blaze

Loss Of Approximately $2,200
Is Sustained By Ralph
Kegarse Last Evening

Two trucks and a pleasure car were practically destroyed when fire gutted the garage of Ralph Kegarse, proprietor of the New Castle Auto Express at 516 East Winter avenue last evening. Loss on the building and contents was estimated at $2,200 by Assistant Fire Chief E. Clare Stockman.

An alarm from Box 213 called the Second Ward and Trucks A and B from Central station, and they found the garage burning fiercely on their arrival. Two trucks and two pleasure cars were stored in the garage, one of which was gotten out without damage by the firemen. The two trucks owned by Mr. Kegarse and a pleasure car belonging to Frank Maxwell were badly damaged however. A quantity of bread belonging to the A. & P. Grocery Co. and some other foodstuffs belonging to the Crui-shank Co., which were stored in the garage were destroyed or badly damaged by smoke and water.

Two of the trucks, which are operated between New Castle and Pittsburgh, had left the garage about an hour before, or Mr. Kegarse's loss might have been more severe.

Several sticks of dynamite were found on a box on a shelf in the garage by the firemen after the blaze had been extinguished.

The loss to the building, a concrete block structure, was estimated at $700, while the damage to the three cars was placed at around $1,500.

SENATE COMMITTEE

President Reported As Per-

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The Senate finance committee will rewrite the Hawley Tariff Bill passed by the house and materially slash the rates in "the highest tariff bill in history," it was predicted today following a series of rapid-fire developments in the tariff fight.

President Hoover is represented as being considerably perturbed over the criticism at the house bill that many of the house rates are higher than necessary to protect industries, and would lead to unwarranted price boosts. At the same time he is committed by campaign speeches to a tariff which insures the home market for American producers.

James J. Davis Has Trouble In Entering Moose Lodge

(International News Service)

NORTHUMBERLAND, Pa., July 12.—No man, "his said," is a prophet in his own country and Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, director general of the Loyal Order of Moose and one of the best known Pennsylvanians in the nation, today can testify to the wisdom of the ancient axiom.

Known as the "biggest Moose in the world," Davis had much trouble in identifying himself at a lodge meeting here yesterday, having forgotten the necessary credentials and membership card that are required for admission.

Announcing himself as "Mr. Davis," a common name in itself, the doorman expressed little concern in barring the cabinet member's entrance until it was discovered later that he was none other than the head of the organization.

However, all was forgiven today and passed on as an inadvertent error that was easily excusable in the face of the circumstances—that is, there are plenty of "Davises." A group of more personal friends later identified a photograph of Davis, the secretary, as the one whom they had turned away.

Twelve Scouts Killed In Fire

Premature Destruction Of House Takes 12 Lives
Of Boys

TRAGEDY MARKS
MOCK PROGRAM

(International News Service)

GILLINGHAM, Kent, England, July 12.—An official investigation was expected to get under way late today or tomorrow to place blame for the premature destruction of a dummy house by fire last night during a fire-fighting display in aid of a hospital charity, in which 12 Boy Scouts lost their lives.

The tragedy, starting as a mock display, but ending in terrible reality, left the town of Gillingham stunned. Most of the residents of the town and virtually all of the boys' parents witnessed the fire. They were compelled to stand by in helpless horror while firemen and volunteers made desperate but futile efforts to rescue the hapless victims.

Investigators will seek to determine the cause of the premature ignition of the dummy building. The house had been erected on the grounds of the Gillingham hospital and the 12 Boy Scouts were delegated to act as "residents" of the structure. The demonstration was billed as "the fireman's wedding."

The "wedding party" had just entered the building when the fire broke out. As the apparently horror-stricken persons in the house rushed to the windows the audience, thrilled by the obvious realism of the scene, cheered. But their applause soon turned to cries of grief and dismay when it was seen that the unfortunate were really trapped by a real and remorseless conflagration.

Someone forgot to turn in the alarm and the firemen, waiting behind some nearby shrubbery for the signal, failed to respond in time to get the fire under control.

In the meantime the victims in the building were calling from the windows and the terror upon their faces proclaimed that their danger was real and not an imitation.

The firemen, now confronted with a (Continued On Page Two)

Poincare Asks France To Approve Agreement Of United States Debt

By FREDERICK K. ABBOTT

PARIS, July 12.—A renewed attempt to induce the French chamber of deputies to ratify the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement between the United States and France by August 1 was launched by Premier Raymond Poincare in the chamber today.

In a long and impassioned address, the premier alluded to harmful results which might follow repudiation of the agreement, and urged that the deputies decide with the least possible loss of time to ratify the treaty.

M. Poincare told the house he had made efforts to obtain modification of the terms laid down in the agreement, but they had proved abortive. "When Secretary Mellon came to France last year," he said, "I did my best to talk with him to obtain better conditions. But the secretary of the United States treasury absolutely refused to discuss the question."

Two Courses Open

"You have two courses open. One is to pay $400,000,000 in cash on the first of August in liquidation of a debt contracted with America for war materials. The other is to ratify the Mellon-Berenger agreement and pay this sum over a period of 62 years."

Under the terms of the agreement, this debt would automatically be funded into the other French debts to France.

"If we repudiate the Mellon-Berenger agreement and refuse to pay by August 1, America has a right to throw out treasury bonds into the international market. I have not forgotten the attacks upon French credit in 1925 and 1926, and these may easily be renewed if we are not careful."

"Four hundred million dollars at the present time will be a cruel blow to the treasury, and even if we must pay this lump sum, remember that (Continued On Page Two)

CULVER CITY, Cal., July 12.—Two newly-revealed heroes of the air, Loren W. Mendell and R. B. "Pete" Reinhart, gradually tightened their grip on aeronautical fame today as they relentlessly drove their faithful Buhl air sedan Angelino onward toward their ambitious goal of 300 hours of continuous flight.

Having already surpassed every similar endurance test in aviation history, the two courageous pilots maintained a steady circling course over the airport here, after more than 241 hours of unbroken flying had been accumulated.

No Sign Of Weakening

No sign of weakening in this unusual ordeal was apparent in either the men or the machine, although it was freely declared by aeronautical experts and physicians on the ground that the plane and motor would give way before the flying partners would surrender.

At daybreak, the ground crew made ready for the 37th midair refueling, when approximately 100 gallons of gasoline will be transferred to the tanks of the Angelino.

Predictions of fog failed to come true and Mendell and Reinhart, thus were spared the misadventure they experienced the night before when heavy fog banks, rolling in from the sea, forced them to fly at low altitudes.

Motor trouble that had first appeared yesterday morning, today had seemingly vanished, and the engine (Continued On Page Two)

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, July 12.—President Hoover today announced the appointment of Charles S. Wilson, of Hall, New York, to the Federal Farm Board. The appointment leaves only one of the eight places on the board yet to be filled.

Wilson was graduated from Cornell University and was later a professor there. From 1915 to 1926 he was New York State commissioner of agriculture. He is president of the New York State Horticultural society and secretary of the West New York Growers Cooperative Packing association.

There may be no rain for a couple of weeks and the creeks may be sluggish and dry, and there may not be any rain for the crops, nor a sign of rain in the sky. But there is a way that I know will work, a record without a war, it will rain as the day is done, whether I want it or not. The sun may beat on the busy street and the temperature run amuck, but let me suggest that the car be washed, and then be prepared to duck. And it's happened again as it usually does, looks like the same old tricks, the car is washed and it looks like rain, the weather is eighty-six.

PA NEW OBSERVES

General manager of the Central region of the Pennsylvania railroad went through New Castle enroute to Erie today. Pa. New observes he stopped here long enough to give consideration to New Castle's need for a modern passenger station.

Harry Ruha, New Castle young man, will probably be made an example of by local authorities. Harry was caught in the act of sending in a false alarm last evening. Plenty of warning has been given of the seriousness of this offense and Fire Chief Lynn does not intend to be lenient.

The water in the Shenango river has shown little signs of receding during the past few days, although yesterday was rainless in this locality. It is still above the six-foot stage. The Neshannock has fallen rapidly, however.

Farmers who have lots of corn planted have welcomed the rain during the past few weeks. Corn bids fair to be a bountiful crop, having secured enough of a start before the rain set in to beat the weeds to it. It is only a matter of a few days now until the good old corn-on-the-cob will be available.

Pa. News was in a store last night and was rather amazed to see a customer nonchalantly pull out a couple of the new one dollar bills and pass them over the counter in payment for some goods. Most folks who have any of the new currency are holding on to it as souvenirs.

Election of W. F. Moody as president of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce by the directors yesterday is a move that will meet with approval of the community. Mr. Moody is keenly alive to the needs and possibilities of the community, and will make a fine leader for the civic body.

Pa. News discovered last night that there is a street intersection in New Castle that has five way traffic, in addition to the intersection at East, Water, Neshannock and Washington streets. This intersection is at Butler avenue, Cascade and Adams streets. It's a busy intersection too, we might remark.

And by the way, if you want a nice route to Cascade Park, where traffic of East Washington street is largely avoided, try Butler avenue and Cascade street. The latter street was graded last year, and has been as good as that it is an excellent thoroughfare for traffic at the present time.

More and more unnecessary expenses are swept aside by the railroads of the country, like in all successful business enterprises. In a (Continued On Page Two)

Heavy Damage By Cloudburst

Walls Of Water Pour Down On East El Paso,
Texas

HEAVY DAMAGE
BY CLOUDBURST

(International News Service)
EL PASO, Tex., July 12.—East El Paso today is checking up damage, expected to run into hundreds of thousands of dollars, caused by a cloudburst last night.

Walls of water pouring down the east slope of the mountains carried boulders and debris far into the residential section. Considerable damage was also done at several points in the business district. Street car service was disrupted and is not expected to be resumed until late today. Pavements, sidewalks and lawns were torn out by rushing waters which came down the streets in walls three and four feet high.

Several automobiles were almost buried by mud and rocks in an underpass below the Southern Pacific railway. Occupants of the cars escaped to high ground when they saw the wall of water descending on them.

The storm traveled over a narrow strip, the west and south residential sections and the downtown business section remaining untouched by it. The floor is the worst in the history of El Paso, where the normal average rainfall is less than 10 inches yearly.

Lawrence County Girl Hitch Hikers Write About Trip Across Continent

109 S. 46 St., Tacoma, Wash.
July 9, 1929.

New Castle, Pa.

Editor: We have reached our destination of hitch-hiking, which is Tacoma, Wash., and we wish to have it put in The News. We are the same girls who wrote to you from Flint, Mich.

We left there Wednesday, June 19, crossed the state and were able to take in Kalamazoo's 100th anniversary celebration the same day. We then went through Indiana and arrived in Chicago Thursday, the 26th. We arrived at Madison, Wis., the next evening.

Later we came up to Sioux City and passed through the hills where the Black Hawk war was fought; also where Black Hawk was captured; also went through the famous Wisconsin Dells. We got to Eau Claire the same day and saw several Indian villages and began getting into some of the Minnesota wilderness by the time we passed St. Paul and going toward Duluth.

We passed very many lakes in Minnesota, one country having 1,000 in it. We remember the lakes very clearly on account of the thousands of mosquitoes we encountered. Crossed the Mississippi river several times and later arrived in Duluth, where it was very cold. Here the person giving us a lift was kind enough to take us through the Jay Cook Park of which the elevation is 1,000 feet. Here from a lookout point can be seen the St. Louis river, city of Duluth, Lake Superior, Superior City, large ore docks, many grain elevators and a peninsula extending out in the bay four miles.

We left Duluth Monday, the 24th, and arrived in Grand Rapids and Grand Forks, N. D., and to Lakota, N. D. Then came Culbertson, Mont. the 25th. Here we struck a 50-mile gale which certainly was quite a cyclone. On the way to Wolf Point we passed through the largest Indian reservation in the United States. En route to Glasgow we got a lift with a sheriff, Charlie Taylor, who showed us an old Indian burying ground. We were able to pick some cactus blossoms and also sage, as this is quite a sage country. It can be seen for miles.

Irrigation is done at Saco, Mont., and because of this they have the largest and best mosquito ranches. We left from Malta the next morning and arrived at Malta by 11 a. m. and made it to Great Falls the same day. We spent the night at a hotel here, then left Great Falls at noon and got a stage straight to Missoula, 231 miles. During this ride we entered the Rocky Mountains. It was a very pretty sight and on passing Helena, the state capital, we spent a couple of hours there; also passed the first Catholic Indian mission, of which some of the buildings still remained. We continued on through the mountains and reached Wallace.

Wallace is the cleanest and nicest city among the mountains of Idaho. We passed the largest lead and zinc mine in the world, which is worked 4,000 feet underground. We went around Lake Cour d'Alene, which was beautiful, then through the mountains, crossed the border into Spokane, Wash., and while here visited the Davenport Hotel, which is the largest and most beautiful one in the western part of the U. S.

On our way from here to Wenatchee we went through the dry river bed of the Colville river and saw the dry falls (Continued On Page Two)

Council To Name Spout Inspectors

Council To Decide Future Action On Roof Water This Afternoon

BURNS WANTS TO HAVE POINTS CLEAR

Discharge of roof water into the sanitary sewer system of this city came in for consideration today when council convened in the city building. During the session Municipal Engineer Miller recommended the appointment of a number of inspectors and alternates but council withheld action pending further information as to the rights of the city.

The men recommended by Miller as inspectors are J. E. Drake, Leonard Freeman, Charles Snyder, Harry L. Reese, Eugene Wallace, H. W. Elmer, Paul Jarvis, H. P. Thompson, W. L. Pettitt, Louis Hazen, Calvin Smith and C. N. Clark. The alternates: John Rea, James Deskin, Norman Seams, John Huttman, Frank B. Ranney and W. Young. Salaries proposed have not been announced.

According to Miller, the city would be divided into six districts and inspectors would be allotted certain areas.

The inspectors would visit homes, show identification letters and ask permission to test the lines.

If permission were refused, the inspector would report to the city and a policeman would accompany him to the residence.

Colored water would be poured in the spouts. If it was noticed at the nearest manhole of the sanitary sewer it would show that roof water is being discharged into the sanitary system.

Councilman Burns listened to the discussion and said he was not fully satisfied as to the city's rights and preferred delaying action until Solicitor White set all points clear.

Mayor Gillespie and council will meet with Solicitor White this afternoon and the action of the city regarding roof water in the future will be decided finally.

Pope To Receive Yank Airmen

Pope Pius XI To Grant Audience To Intrepid Pair New In Rome

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL

ROME, July 12.—Roger Q. Williams and Lewis A. Yancey, the intrepid American airmen who flew from Old Orchard, Me., to Rome with only one forced landing in northern Spain, will be received in audience by Pope Pius XI before they leave this city.

The fliers, tired by receptions, official audiences, ovations and social affairs, slept late today to "catch up."

After breakfast, accompanied by Monsignor Burke, rector of the American college, and Major Lowell, aeronautical attaché of the United States embassy, they went to St. Peter's where they admired the splendid architecture of this ancient and imposing structure. Later they crossed the boundary into Vatican City—the new papal state—visiting the office of the papal chamberlain to arrange their visit to the pontiff.

Telling of their experiences in hitch hiking from Lawrence County to Tacoma, Washington, a letter has been received by The News from Miss Victoria May and Mary Dubrasky, of Neshannock Falls, which was written after their arrival in the Western state.

Many interesting experiences and descriptions of many scenes during their trip are given. The letter is as follows:

Young Pa Newc noticed a great improvement in lighting on the Diamond. Two beautiful new style street lights containing two globes each were erected on the east side of the Diamond.

Pa Newc saw a queer sight yesterday. It was a lad who had a grotesque false face or rather an entire head which he could pull down over his own head. This looked funny, but was

The amount necessary to convey 1,000 tons of freight and cars one mile has been diminished 27 per cent, from 197 pounds to 143 pounds. The lengths of the average freight trains have been increased 30 per cent, from 3 to 4 cars.

Safety plays a big part in the operation of a railroad. The Erie and Ashtabula division of the Pennsylvania railroad, whose headquarters are situated here, has launched a campaign to spread the gospel of safety first. Personal letters are sent by the superintendent to every employee on the division so that all might constantly be reminded to be on their guard. Accidents don't pay!

What almost everyone did with the new paper bills that the treasury issued yesterday was to compare their size with the old currency. Practically every man Pa Newc spoke to made some remark about the small size.

A large number of cars waited last night for a train which was comfortably sitting on the tracks at the Grant street crossing. The medley of diversified auto horns was not musical.

A huge steam roller rolled its way down North street, yesterday. It progressed noisily, slowly and painfully.

A family reunion certainly draws together many acquaintances but a fire such as that at the Kegerise storage garage, Winter avenue, last night goes it one better. Young Pa Newc was on hand in record time and it seemed as if the entire north hill was there. If you doubt curiosity's effect, just go to a fire and watch the crowds come.

400 feet high, one of the four wonders of the world, then down a six-mile grade to Columbia valley and river and on into Wenatchee and Cashmere, where is the apple capital of the world.

At Cashmere we saw our first forest fire, in which two men were trapped. From Wenatchee we got a lift to Seattle through Stevens Pass. This was through the beautiful Cascade range, we were on the summit of a mountain and saw the clouds and there was snow on the highway. It was very cold here. Then later we went down into a canyon where it was warm. While going on this pass we saw the new 12-mile tunnel for the Northwestern railway. From Seattle we went to Tacoma, which is the home town of Mary Dubrasky, and were welcomed by her brother and friends.

On our way we slept outside, in tourist camps and in hotels. We rode in every make of car and with sheriffs and owners of concerns.

Through the whole trip we were treated wonderfully by everyone. In Tacoma they gave us a big reception and we received many lovely gifts and were given a ride on Puget Sound in motor boat.

We are now spending several weeks in Tacoma and are planning our return trip via Yellowstone National Park.

to co-operate if Lawrence County would build its end, we never dreamed they would call us so quickly. They have agreed to do their share, and it is a distinct pleasure for me to say that the Butler County commissioners will immediately make formal application to the State Highway Department for enough of its share of State Aid money to complete the mile and a quarter or thereabouts, starting at Portersville and running to the Lawrence County line."

This announcement was received with cheers for it meant the end of the long road of anticipation, the actual completion of a road, long needed, that gives the southern end of Lawrence County a concrete ribbon into Butler County, to the Benjamin Franklin and the Perry Highways.

Start Next Spring

It was agreed by all present that the wise thing to do was to do the work in one piece, thus getting a better price and avoiding the inconvenience of closing the road several times. This will mean that contracts cannot be let for the work until this fall, but Engineer T. C. Frame stated that he had no doubt but that the work would be started early next spring.

The dinner-conference was held in the Forsberg Hotel, and perhaps the excellence of the dinner had something to do with the happy frame of mind of the men present. John W. Orfutt, of Ellwood City, who has been one of the outstanding boosters for this road for years was made chairman of the meeting and he introduced men from each county, with the admonition that they were to make their speeches brief. They did.

It was a happy occasion for Mr. Orfutt for he has been in the van of the movement for many years. Realizing what the road means to the entire southern end of Lawrence County he has urged this road and on Thursday evening he had the pleasure of seeing his dreams realized. In speaking of the realization he paid a high compliment to Senator George T. Weingartner who has aided immeasurably in getting the road through, and to the Lawrence County commissioners who have shown such a progressive spirit in road building.

The men attending from Lawrence County were Commissioner Thomas J. McCullough, Senator George T. Weingartner, Fred L. Rentz, president of The New Castle News, John W. Orfutt, John A. Gelbach, and Carl Davidson of Ellwood City, and Assemblymen M. A. Blckett and Bart Richards. Short addresses were made by Senator Weingartner, Mr. Rentz, and the two assemblymen.

Butler County was represented by its board of county commissioners and a group of prominent citizens, and about ten attended from Portersville.

stratagem approached. Indications were that it would be one of the most impressive ever staged in the eternal city.

From an early hour of the morning throngs began to gather in the huge square, gaily bedecked with the American flag and the fascist emblem, terminated. All buildings and houses facing on the square were draped with brilliant bunting, and American residents and visitors in Rome expressed genuine surprise at the multitudinous number of American flags resurrected for the occasion.

High government officials and representatives of various Italian aeronautical societies will be present at the reception, at which the people of Rome will have an opportunity of seeing and greeting the trans-Atlantic heroes without the necessity of scrambling for the privilege in densely thronged streets as they have every time during the last two days when the fliers ventured from their hotel.

James Ross, Jr., the four-month-old son of James and Mildred Bigham Ross, 332 East North street, died this morning at 11 o'clock at the residence after an illness. The parents survive.

STAR LORE

INFINITE EXTREMES IN NATURE.

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter.

Astronomy embraces infinite dimensions—the infinitely large and the infinitely small; the magnificence of stars in singles, doubles, multiples, globular clusters, spiral galaxies, infinity of space is summed up in "inconceivable units"—"light years." At the other extreme is the infinitely minute; the atoms in the hot surging stars breaking up into radiant energy, tell the astronomer the star's story—its physical composition, motion, size, etc. The atom revealing stellar secrets has a diameter of less than a hundred millionth of an inch. The light wave, bearing the message to earth from the star 150,000 of an inch in length.

Belgian Prince Gets Promotion In Army

(International News Service)
BRUSSELS, July 12—Bonnie Prince Charley, Count of Flanders has been promoted lieutenant and is performing his duties in the military camp at Beverloo.

Although he is the son of the king, the young prince shares all the joys and hardships of military life like any other plain soldier. Just at present he and his comrades are being much annoyed by thousands of caterpillars which are infesting the camp.

The prince is a "lolly good fellow" according to all reports and very much liked by all who know him. He is particularly fond of the very ordinary black Belgian beer and often caught slipping a glass in a modest tavern talking to just plain people. He is already a trained naval officer and did active service in the British army.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CHOICE

IN THE election by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce at the meeting yesterday of W. F. Moody as president for the coming year, the board has made a wise choice.

Mr. Moody, a native of New Castle, and long one of its leading business men, has been active in many efforts for the progress and betterment of New Castle in the past, and it can be taken for granted that he will direct the work of the Chamber of Commerce in a way that will at all times be for the best advantage of the city as a whole.

Mr. Moody's recent civic work as head of the Community Chest board is an example of the untiring and efficient manner in which he "carries on," and it is a matter for congratulation that a man of such energy and ability is to direct the work of the year. He is succeeding Ira Ramsey as president of the board, and will take up the duties where they are laid down by Mr. Ramsey after an excellent administration. Mr. Ramsey conducted the affairs of the office during the past year in a most commendable manner, and efforts now in progress will be able continued under the new administration.

We bespeak for Mr. Moody city wide co-operation during the coming year in every move made for city advancement.

HOOVER DEMANDS ACTION

CHARACTERISTIC of the Hoover way of doing things is his decision to have the new farm board organized at once, even before its entire personnel has been recruited. His determination to lose no time provides a reassuring contrast with the dilatoriness of congress.

The president has been most prompt in his appointments. The board would have been completed days ago had not some of Mr. Hoover's selection found acceptances entailed too great a personal sacrifice. In some instances the most logical men for the appointments have not been available, and Mr. Hoover is not content with second-rate men.

Thus far the chief executive has been signally successful in naming men meeting the wide public approval. Typical of the public's reaction was the South's satisfaction over the naming of Carl Williams as the expert on cotton.

As an instrument for farm relief the farm board has already accomplished something. The character of the president's appointments and his celerity have raised the farmers' morale. He is looking forward hopefully to the effects which the combination of first rate executive and administrative skill and ample treasury backing will have on his marketing situation.

THE GOLDEN DELUGE

THOSE who have never made a study of the matter are of the opinion that Marketing America's wheat crop imposes no great burden on the nation's marketing resources. To them the real facts are a source of considerable amazement.

Half the wheat crop moves to market within 90 days. During this brief period the wheat farmers must be handed between three and four hundred million dollars.

During the weeks immediately preceding the harvest men and freight cars mobilized at the wheat fields. From all over the country freight cars move toward the wheat belt, the entire transportation system of the nation co-operating in the task. Approximately 40,000 railroad cars are needed, for once the harvest is begun in the major producing areas, the grain seeks outlet in a veritable avalanche. There are 60,000 combination reaping and threshing machines feeding these cars.

Promptness is as golden to this marketing task as the crop itself. The American wheat crop must hurry into the market ahead of the Canadian crop; the Canadian crop must beat the Argentine crop. The whole process must work with precision comparable to that of a vast army if there is to be no financial loss for any of that great number directly concerned.

RAILROADS IN THE AIR

AIR-RAIL transportation is a fact. One transcontinental service by train and plane is already in operation, and before its inaugural trip was concluded another system was in process of formation.

Today speed demands that transcontinental travelers go by train by night and plane by day. But this development does not augur that the next logical and inevitable step will be plane both by day and night. Rather the new mode of travel utilizing both trails and wings refutes the extravagant claims of those who are so minded that they have become a little light-headed.

The airplane is less likely to take the place of the railroads than to become an auxiliary of the railroads. It will be one transportation agency among many, doing the job it is best able to do and leaving the rest of the great transportation job to be performed by the railroad, motor truck, bus and waterways. And these systems or modes of transportation will serve each other in serving the public.

Aviation history moves at a breathless pace, so the day may not be far off when the railroad systems will be involved in a competitive race for supremacy in the skies. When that time comes it will be an excellent time to make haste slowly in the attempt to make time and space of no account. Air transportation will not permit cutting margins of safety and reliability to beat rates and time schedules of competitors.

No guaranty on a car covers the race for the crossing.

Few failures are so complete as that of a bald man with a pug nose in his effort to be a sheik.

Another successful ocean flight, with little margin to spare. While two Americans flew the ocean, two others were breaking the refueling and endurance record, only a few hours old.

When this was written yesterday, Mandell and Reinhart, flying in California, passing their 215th hour of continuous flight, reported "engine working perfectly."

This is the important thing, that an air engine can run without stopping, 200 hours. In another year or two that will mean around the world in a week.

And only the other day France celebrated Bleriot's flight across the channel, when Northfield gave him a prize of $50,000 for "a marvelous achievement."

The Germans have built a real airplane. It took reporters an hour to go through its three decks, machine shop, sleeping quarters, etc. It will carry 120 people, and soon fly to see us.

This plane is built to stand a hurricane, and land on rough waves.

With one switch the pilot can shut off six of the twelve motors, change the gas or stop any motor. One knob stops all motors in emergencies. THAT'S an airplane, and only the beginning.

The Russian government's new gun, firing 150 shots per minute, is faster, lighter, better than our Lewis gun. Weighing 17 pounds and eight ounces, about half the weight of the Lewis gun, it sends a bullet, 4,255 feet. It is replacing the heavier slower Lewis gun in Russian airplanes.

Of course we are not afraid of anything that walks and shoots, but it might be as well to be friendly with Russia.

The Arctic explorer, Stefansson, and a companion, Anderson, have lived for a year on nothing but meat, eating enormous quantities.

Physicians say their health is better; their resistance to disease strengthened.

Let vegetarians muse on that.

The rock in 1,000 million years produces soil, with the aid of earth worms.

The soil, after more centuries, produces grass. The cow eats grass for three years, digesting it slowly. Man eats the beefsteak in fifteen minutes.

Great labor-saving device. Give your children meat.

Dresses will be longer, less less blousy. Bland is the word, no matter what the precisionist may say. Nothing could be louder than two intensely pink knees.

Evening dresses already reach the ankles.

Backs are still worn down to the coccyx. They will rise. Women want to see how many queer things they can do, that's all.

Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, is in Prague. As a real fighter, he will want to visit the tomb of an old blind king of Bohemia that never tired of fighting.

In his last battle, he had his horse chained on either side to the horse of a knight and sword in hand, galloped with the two knights in the thick of the fight, slashing at the foe until he died. Blind, he did not want to miss the fight.

And there were no gate receipts.

The big war was started by a murder in the Balkans, when so-called "Serbian patriots" murdered the Austrian heir apparent.

Now four Balkan nations are "seething" to use the customary expression. Bulgarians and Jugoslavs invaded in a pitched battle. Czechoslovakians and Hungarians have a quarrel that will need the attention of the League of Nations.

Patching nations together, making new nations out of old material, does not end old hatreds.

Ancient Filipinos were buried, sitting down, in huge porcelain jars, sealed at the top. A sitting skeleton was recently taken from its jar, near Manila.

Those ancient primitives probably wanted their bodies to be safe from the rats, while waiting for Mumbo Jumbo to come and get them. They have waited some time. When, as, and if those jars are emptied for the judgment day, what a surprise for those Filipinos, meeting kindly Angel Gabriel instead of a vindictive island god.

President Hoover wants the post-office to pay its way. He hates waste. However, merely charging the people more for postage would be a little TOO EASY. That is the method of a power trust, anybody can do that, with a monopoly.

President Hoover, an engineer, will want service more efficient, saving money that way.

Incidentally, a couple of battleships that we would build without thinking, and that are only targets for air-planes after they are built, would equal a year's loss in the postoffice.

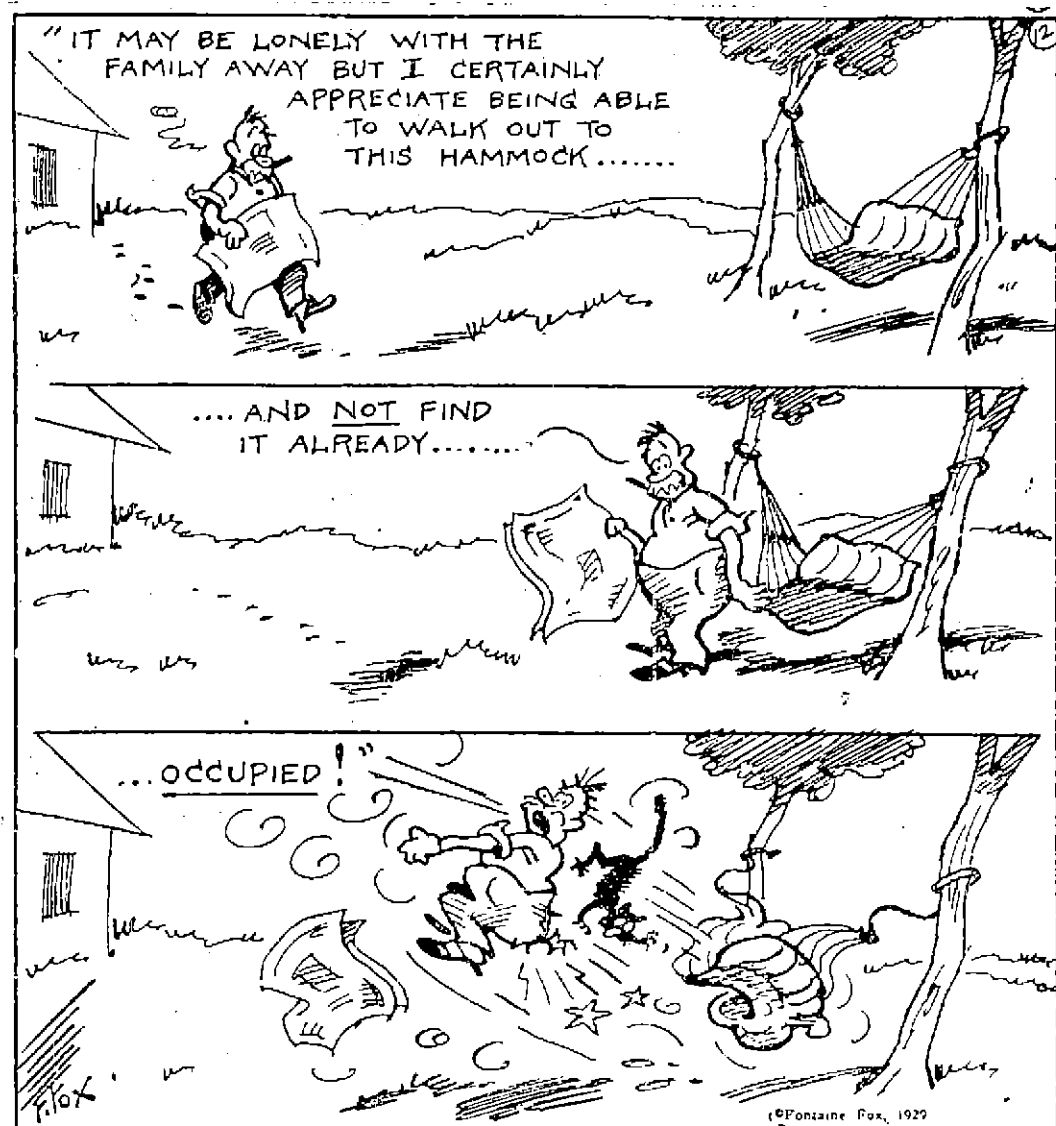

The Prince of Wales gave a dinner party for Ambassador Davies and his wife. A young English woman, using a bogus title, crashed the gate, was presented to the prince, escorted, sat down in the wrong place. She was politely asked to leave, not arrested, nobody made her tell her real name.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 7:32. Sun rises tomorrow 4:37.

What a few people think often don't amount to much, but what a lot of people think commands attention all the time from everybody.

A chap told us yesterday that he threw his last Christmas necktie in the rag bag on Sunday. Necktie factories would not last long if they had to depend on chaps like him.

"Bill is going to retire from business for five years."

"Oh, I've heard him say that before."

"Yes, but this time the judge said it."

One should always be good himself and also all of his immediate family before he goes out to reform the world. It looks better anyhow.

As long as most of the Bermuda onions come from Texas we can figure on being deceived in many other ways also. Who can tell an onion from Bermuda?

Mrs. Buy-on-time—"How much is this hat?"

Clerk—"It's $10 cash."

Mrs. B—"And how much by installment?"

Clerk—"It's $15-$10 down and $1 a week for five weeks."

Live your life so that when you die you will not be missed only at meal time.

A local man went to have his photograph taken. The photographer asked him, "mounted or otherwise?" Well, I'll have it taken mounted, replied the man. "But I don't know what my wife will say. She never has seen me on a horse before."

When you visit a place where a dog is the big thing in the family and the dog watches you closely while you eat, the chances are you are eating from the plate the dog usually eats from. Omigosh!

Last year I asked my best girl to marry me and she refused. I got even with her by marrying her mother. Then my father married the girl. Now what am I to myself?

My mother's mother, which is my wife, must be my grandmother, and I, being the grandmother's husband, am my own grandfather!

In most eating places you have your choice of eating it or leaving it alone.

See by the paper that an eastern college student studied so hard he went crazy. If you happen to have a son in college don't let him read this.

A salesman was calling upon a miserly retailer when a poor woman entered soliciting alms.

The retailer, wishing to play a joke on the salesman, told the woman to "ask the boss" at the same time pointing to the other man.

The salesman, turning to the grocer, who was smaller than he, said: "Boy, give this poor woman a dollar out of the till."

A leg has to be pretty good looking to look good when it's bare. No man has a leg that could possibly look good bare or any other way. People have been careless with their legs and have taken no pains to remove the war warts and other blemishes until in some cases it's too late.

"Do you think your father will object to my suit?"

"I don't see why he should; he wears one almost as bad."

There is a deficit of $32,121.98 in the United States postal service. We do not wonder at that. Every day we receive in this office a bag full of advertising matter sent out at low portal rates. This junk is never opened and we have to pay someone for hauling it away. Make those babies pay real postal rates and the troubles of the government in that line will be over.

Recently we have read in the newspapers accounts of where lawyers have withdrawn from cases because they were too rotten for them. This does not happen often, but when it does it causes more or less favorable comment and attention.

That is one extreme. That is zero. The wise man, aware of every danger to himself and others, drives slowly and carefully where disaster lurks; and if he drives fast where fast driving is dangerous, it is because he has a definite purpose and the advantage to be gained is sufficient to justify the risk.

With these two extremes established, you can examine your own driving and the purpose or lack of purpose which inspires it, and thus discover in what degree you rank above the idiot.

And thus, also, you can grade every act of your ordinary life and by grading the acts grade yourself.

Every act and word has an effect. Do you plan the effect and thus obtain it purposely? Do you realize, when you speak or act, just what the consequence will be?

The idiot does not. The wise man does. Somewhere between these two you must establish yourself.

To speak and act half of the time without purpose and without realization of what the effect will be is to prove yourself a half-wit.

It is a simple rule, easily applied, and should be of interest in a world addicted to intelligence tests.

REAL MYSTERY

A henpecked negro was suing for separation from his wife. The judge wanted to know on what grounds. "Oh, she talk an' talk an' talk till Ah can't stand it no longer!" was the reply.

A boy is old enough to be trusted with the car if he has had enough to keep out of the way when sister's young man calls.

It's easy to make money when you don't need it. The same is true of making love.

TO DISCOVER HOW WISE YOU ARE, COMPARE YOURSELF WITH THE IDIOT

Idiocy reveals itself in two ways. The idiot acts without definite purpose or intention, and he is unable to foresee the consequences of his acts. If you would adopt a standard of measurement to determine the degree of your intelligence, the idiot must represent zero and the degree of your superiority to him.

But the standard of measurement must have two extremes—an irreducible minimum and an ultimate maximum—and if the idiot represents one extreme, the other must be repre-

Ability And Zeal Recognized In Personnel Of Farm Board

President Hoover's Selections And Zeal Of Appointees Who Sacrifice Private Interests Lauded

By The Press

As the members of the Federal Farm Board have been selected by President Hoover, the press has applauded the selection of men successful in private enterprises and the zeal they display in their willingness to give their services to test the new law. Chairman Alexander Legge, who comes from the International Harvester Co., attracts especial attention.

That Chairman Legge's services in organizing the machinery of the board will go far toward insuring the eventual success of the experiment, is the opinion of the CHICAGO TRIBUNE based upon the postscript taken "by those conversant with his business genius and sound judgment." The KALAMAZOO GAZETTE describes the personnel of the board as "broad-gauge administrators." The ADRIAN TELEGRAM says it seems "singularly fortunate that Mr. Legge should head the board," and the CHARLESTON EVENING POST, describing him as "an outstanding business man," declares that the task of these men "is as hard as one as that ever imposed upon a federal board."

The fact that Representative Howard of Nebraska, "a militant Democrat," indorses the chairman impresses the SIOUX CITY TRIBUNE to observe: "Mr. Howard knows Legge and has faith in his ability and his spirit toward the agricultural cause." The SIOUX CITY TRIBUNE remarks that "this reward must be in the knowledge that he grasped the opportunity to serve in what is recognized as a national emergency." The CHATTANOOGA TIMES thinks the sacrifices of such men "are no doubt fully appreciated by thoughtful citizens," while the CHARLESTON DAILY MAIL sees a case in which the office seeks the man and the man makes a sacrifice to obey the call of duty.

The WASHINGTON STAR says: "Certainly it appears that the operation of the law is to get away to the flying start if the ability of the membership of the board means anything." The CHICAGO TRIBUNE is also impressed with the importance of Legge's appointment and records: "His experience equips him for the task which face him. He was born and brought up on the farm; he has been in intimate touch with farming conditions all his life; he has proved his ability to direct a vast enterprise; he is not unacquainted with the methods of official Washington, for he held responsible office in the war administration."

The GREEN BAY PRESS GAZETTE thinks that "in the entire country probably no better man could be found for this responsibility," and the SIOUX FALLS DAILY ARGUS-LEADER considers the announcement of his acceptance as "good news to the agricultural regions" and as marking "an auspicious beginning of the farm board organization."

The press generally appears fully cognizant of the sacrifice of material reward that is a necessary adjunct to Mr. Legge's acceptance of this chairmanship and compliments him on laying aside the position that brings him $100,000 annually for one that pays only $22,000. As the WOODBURY DAILY TELEGRAM puts it: "This resources enable him to part with that money that way; and this, capable, vigorous, conscientious, will have the tremendous satisfaction of working for his country in a task which may result in great betterment for a large group of his fellow Americans. He is to be congratulated upon his opportunity just as the rest of us are to be congratulated upon his availability."

In the opinion of the SPRINGFIELD ILLINOIS STATE REGISTER, the fact that he has put aside all consideration of personal interest and emolument in favor of this service to his country reflects the highest spirit of citizenship.

That only a man with a salary of $100,000 a year, even though he will be paid but $22,000, would be fitted for the trail-blazing and important work that lies before Mr. Legge is the opinion expressed by many.

The choice from the Pacific coast of Charles C. Teague, president of two successful cooperative concerns, results in tribute to "this recognized abilities and soundness of judgment," as well as his wide experience in every angle of farming, from the PASADENA STAR-NEWS and the SANTA BARBARA DAILY NEWS.

Here in a plain, sparsely furnished room, sat the Commissars, who plan and budget all the activities of the Soviet Union, not only industrial, agricultural, military and transport, but also the educational and cultural program. And this for 140,000,000 people, stretched out over an area of one-sixth of the land surface of the earth, extending 170 degrees, nearly half way around the globe, speaking 150 different languages, ranging from the Eskimo in the North to the Swahili in the South. IN THE MUSEUM

There is a picture on the wall. That people stop to see. A picture of an old, old man. Who seemed to stand on one. A small plate tells the artist's name. But no one knows the old man's name.

I stood before his wrinkled face. Attracted by the smile. I heard men praise the painter's art. But strangely all the while I wondered did that old man know That we should see his beard of snow.

How many days of anxious care. How many dreary years. How much of anguish did he bear? How many nights of tears Were suffered by that man, that he An artist's masterpiece might be?

Now in an art museum, he Attracts the passing throng. And people praise the painter's skill. And idly muse about the man. The work he came on earth to do.

Oh, did he know so long ago That all the care and pain And grief of eighty years or more Would be that artist's gain? Did he grow old, that he might know His wrinkled cheeks and beard of snow?

Athletic Receipts In High School $30,658 During Past Year

In a partial statement made to the New Castle School Board Thursday evening by the Athletic Council, the financial condition of the council was shown, and the receipts and expenditures of the council itemized.

Several bills yet unpaid are not listed in the expenditures, but the statement as it stands shows a total receipts of $30,658.25, a total expenditure of $29,333.10, and a balance on hand as of June 30, of $1,325.15.

As is to be expected the large portion of the receipts and expenditures are from football. This is the outstanding sport in the Senior High School, and really carries the load for all sports. The total receipts from football amounted to $27,806.98. Basketball was responsible for $1,104.00 track $26.20, and a balance of $1,661.07 from 1928 was carried over.

Many Disbursements

General expense cost $4,168.86. Under this head comes the coaching expense, salaries of other officials, office expense and miscellaneous.

Expenditures charged under the heading of football amounted to $18,368.38. Of this amount $3,709.87 went for guarantees for teams playing here $3,830.64 for uniforms and equipment, $3,415.04 for care of field and equipment, and the balance for sundry expenses such as officials for the games, ticketmen, janitors, police expense, medical services, and incidentals.

Basketball expense amounted to $2,633.25, girls' athletics $135.50, track $204.14, and contributions, which include contributions to the band and junior high schools amounted to $2,775.29.

A tentative budget for athletics has been presented to the board but was not acted upon on Thursday evening.

Huge Canine, With Leonine Mane, Terrorizes Binghamton Residents

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 12.—Binghamton's public of fame as the retreat of an escaped circus lion, reported roaming through the hills in the northwestern section of the city since last Monday, burst today when state troopers practically made certain the identity of the animal as a half shepherd, half St. Bernard dog, owned by James Corrigan of Cortland.

This dog, clipped to resemble a lion and tawny in color, had been missing since July 4 when, while the Corrigan were visiting relatives here he became frightened at children shooting torpedoes and ran away. He returned to the Corrigan home last night, wet and his hair matted with burdocks and ravenously hungry.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

to realize that this was no petty red-flag waving group such as I had encountered in Montana mining camps. Here were men planning the most far-reaching and thoroughgoing experiments in human relationships which had been attempted in the last century, perhaps in the last fifteen centuries! And they have already mustered accomplishments beyond petty cavil.

We asked searching questions about the NEP, or new economic policy. This reply was that it had been found impossible to follow Marx in his program for putting the control of all industry into the hands of manual workers. For in the days of Marx the modern factory system was undreamed of. All laborers labored with their hands. In this age of machine production, trained mechanics and technical experts are required. These could not be secured on the basis of labor checks, which at first took the place of money. So concessions had to be made in order to secure them. Upon this rock of machine production, the whole theory of Communism split. The head of the Planning Commission told us that every reuble that could be gathered was being used for the purchasing of productive machinery.

And yet these Bolsheviks are determined that the machines shall not dominate men. They believe that it will be possible to develop a factory system in which men will not be driven, but which will be operated primarily in the interest of men. We asked why it was that men were not worked longer hours when it was obvious that the great need was for more manufactured goods. His reply was illuminating: "We believe that leisure is of more value to our people than goods." It is the plan to provide a proper amount of leisure to the workers from the outset and to accustom them to its right use.

Perhaps we should judge this Bolshevik movement in its mighty sweep as we would judge a stream. A stream, as it makes its way toward its true level, tends to purify itself. The silt gathered in the first rush in its upper reaches is deposited; the driftwood which it has caught up is gradually left upon the banks. The Russian revolution has not yet reached its true level. It is still in flow. Let it deny the slow, gradual laws of evolution, if it will; it itself is in evolution. Much of the flotsam and jetsam will be dropped. What direction this mighty tide will take, no one, least of all those who are moving with it, can tell. There are complex laws at work in it which none can now perceive. Another new economic policy will soon be declared, as we have it from this Planning Commission.

This evening we had dinner with Charles Smith, representative in Moscow of the American Chamber of Commerce. What an anomaly! The American Federation of Labor refuses to have any dealings with the Bolsheviks. But the American Chamber of Commerce keeps an official representative in Moscow, in order to take up directly with the Bolshevik government any matters which affect its interests. There are some American business men who grow enthusiastic over the immortality of the Bolshevik regime, who do not scruple to do business with it when it is to their advantage to do so. Concessionaires from America are doing business in Russia in rapidly increasing numbers, so Mr. Smith tells us.

The two-way significance that might be attached to the term "Former Follies Beauty" must be more than annoying to those tagged with it.—The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

A unique display by the Kroger store at 95 North Mill Street is an airplane made from strips of bacon. The public is invited to visit this store tomorrow and see it in the attractive meat display counter.

Gala Program For U. S. Flyers

Welcome In Rome To Pathfinder Crew Is Epochal In City's History

EXTEND SOME DAYS

(International News Service)
ROME, July 12.—The Pathfinder's flyers, Roger Q. Williams and Lewis A. Yancey, came, saw and conquered Rome.

The daring twain, who were first to fly from the United States to Rome, were fêted and cheered when they appeared in public Thursday. They were acclaimed not only as pioneers of the sky but aerial emissaries of friendship, who will bring closer in the bonds of amity America and Italy.

Beautiful, dark-eyed Italian senoritas tossed flowers to the airmen and threw kisses to them.

The city is beflagged, with Italian and American banners, decorating public and private buildings.

Shortly after breakfast the airmen visited the United States Embassy where they were received by First Secretary Alexander C. Kirk and the staff. Later they visited the municipal airport where they were photographed with leading Italian aces.

The flyers were guests of First Secretary Kirk at luncheon at the American Embassy.

Then they visited the Coliseum where a detachment of Black Shirts (Fascists) welcomed them in the fashion usually reserved for Premier Mussolini.

From the Coliseum they went to their hotel to prepare for the government banquet beginning at 6 p. m., at which they will be honor guests.

Williams and Yancey will be received by the Governor of Rome today. Afterwards there will be a popular demonstration in Colonna Square.

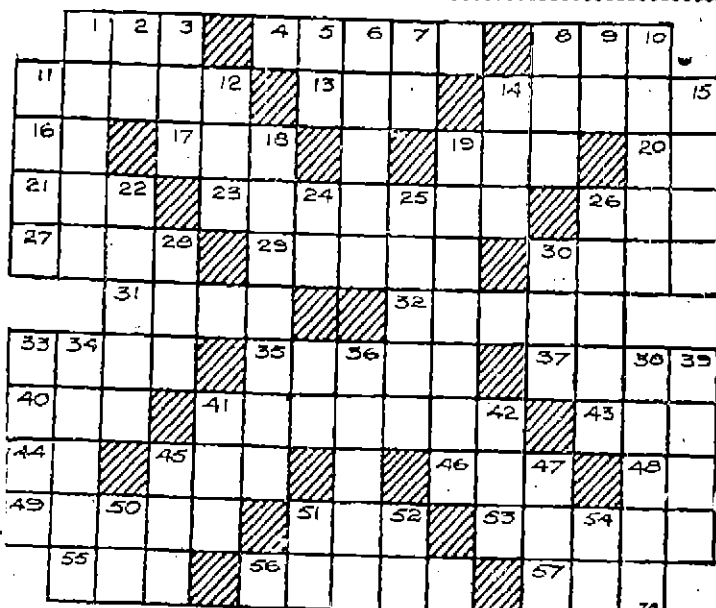

On Saturday the conquerors of the Atlantic will be received by the Fascist party. There will be a dinner at the American Embassy.

The Royal Aero Club will receive the flyers on Sunday. Later they will be guests of Premier Mussolini at dinner. They will visit King Victor Emanuel at his summer villa at San Rossore on Monday.

Dissolve one tablespoon each of salt and baking soda in an aluminum saucepan full of water. When water is hot drop the tarnished silver in, let it stand for a few moments, then remove, wash in soapy water, rinse and polish with soft cloth.

The difference between a chef and a cook is about $125 a month.—The Danbury News.

SAM SPEEDS THE PARTING GUEST

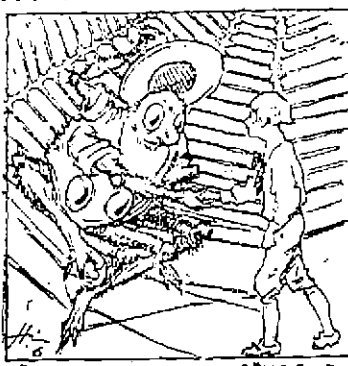

There was one thing to be said in Peter's favor. Whatever happened, he seldom forgot his manners. Although Mrs. Spider had invited him to leave her front porch, now that he was down upon the ground again he turned to bid his hostess a pleasant farewell.

"Thank you very much for allowing me to visit you, Mrs. Spider," said he. "I had a fine time. And I shall remember my promise to bring you some flies. The best of luck to you!"

But would you believe it? Mrs. Spider paid but little attention to him. She muttered something that sounded like "actions speak louder than words" and set to shaking out the web, too busy to do more than buzz a good-by. Mr. Spider, however, had more leisure to do the proper thing. Solemnly he held out a claw for the boy to shake.

"So long, old chap," buzzed Mr. Spider. "I am glad we met and you may consider me your friend as long as I live. Come around again when Mrs. Spider isn't so busy and I'm sure she'll be glad to see you. I promise to introduce you to as fine a brood of crawlers as you'll find in Spider land. Ever see any Spider babies? Cunning little insects, they are."

Peter had his own opinion on the subject and it didn't agree with Mr.

Spider's but he was too wise to say so. He promised to pay the Spiders another visit soon and off he started. He went a short way and turned around to wave a farewell but didn't.

It wouldn't have been any use. Mr. Spider, the sleepy fellow, had dropped off into a doze. Mrs. Spider was out of sight—in the house attending to her family affairs. Peter well knew.

Peter might have felt badly to find out the Spiders had forgotten him so quickly if he had not known such was the custom in insectland. Out of sight, out of mind, with most of the little people. And no wonder either. Life was not easy for them. They did not dare do much day-dreaming. They needed to keep their wits about them every moment if they were to have enough to eat, a place to sleep and keep out of the danger that constantly threatened them.

Peter understood, and without feeling hurt the least little bit, turned his back upon the Spiders and walked swiftly away.

ROGUE RIVER VALLEY

PEAR FARMS PROSPER

(International News Service)
MEDFORD, Ore., July 12.—Pear growers in the famous Rogue river valley are receiving the highest prices paid for Bartlett pears in the past 12 years. It is estimated that 12,000 tons of the entire crop, rated at 18.00 tons, have been purchased by canneries at prices ranging from $15 to $85 per ton.

Excessive early buying this year is attributed by packers to the shortage in pear crops in other sections and an increasing demand for canned pears. Eastern market, it was predicted, would suffer a shortage of the fresh fruit. There will be no Bartletts shipped from the Hood river, Wenatchee or White Salmon districts, while only 700 cars will proceed from Yakima, from which city 3,500 cars went East last year.

The Way OF THE World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

CUSTOMS—MORALS

The only motion picture theater in a small town in Holland is closed for five years because a patron of the theater sat next to his own wife during the show. In this Holland town such a thing is forbidden. Men and women do not sit together in the theater. It is considered a menace to public morality. We laugh at this. Doubtless there are folks in Holland who laugh at us. Morality is largely custom and custom is morality. Because we are used to a course of action—because it has been custom for generations—we call it right and proper. Other people in other lands. In other years might think our most approved customs a "menace to morality."

Analysis is a word too little used and too little practiced. To analyze means to investigate, to study.

To find out to put a value upon a subject. Young men and young women, just out of college, will be asked to line up with all sorts of organizations for the sake of promoting this, that, or the other thing. It is important first that they get into the habit of analyzing rather than into the habit of joining. High pressure salesmanship gets many a man into a course of action that is unwise. Analysis is a good word to remember.

ROUNDOABOUT

One who seeks a roundabout way to the goal may get lost in a swamp. We may have the same experience if we lack the courage to come out in the open and say what we mean. When we tell half the truth and try to conceal the other half, we are on the way to getting lost in the swamp.

THE ART OF LIVING

It has been said that education is the art of making living itself an art. And it is a great thing to live intelligently and with reasonable motives. So many muddle up their lives, making shipwreck, because they fail so sadly in the art of living. So many of us fail, for example, to appreciate certain privileges of life which we have so long been used to that they have become commonplace. Men and women who have their families about them, their homes, and their jobs do not often think definitely of their blessings. They do not take time to be grateful. Men who have health think little of health until they lose it. The art of living means many things. Among others, it means the appreciation of what we have and what we are.

New Angle On Sex Triangle Has No Bearing On Einstein Theory

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service
Dramatic Editor

COPYRIGHT, 1929, International News Service
NEW YORK, July 12.—The fact that the author of "Borrowed Love" is a New York dramatic editor suggests that a tea taster may not know how to brew good tea.

Eide Dudley put "another angle in the sex triangle" in his play and the result is pretty much of a geometrical doughnut.

"It is one of those things that should have been exhibited in a clinic on a doctor's off day, rather than in a theatre.

"A husband is rendered a victim of anaemia through the ravages of influenza. In order that his vibrant young wife might not be bored thru his indisposition he kidnaps the good-looking manager of a theatrical troupe passing through.

"The young manager neglects opportunity in favor of playing an out-of-season Santa Claus, and procures a physician who can cure anaemia.

Physically, the little blue bird of happiness is returned to the domestic hearth.

I trust I have made myself sufficiently vague. It were better so.

The first scene is laid in a box office in a Chicago theatre. There is much comedy, without too much relief, concerning the demerits of New York versus Chicago.

The theme, treated by Freud, Ibsen and Boccaccio, doesn't do justice to the old masters, I am afraid.

I dare say that the author wished to teach a moral lesson. I drew one: Count ten before writing a play with a new angle on the sex triangle.

Talking Behind Their Backs.
Not because I suggested it, "The Grand Street Polies" has added new numbers satirizing the business of talking for a living.

In the summer edition of this revue,
Mere Locbell impersonates Morris Gest in "A Talkie School in Hollywood." And Paula Trueman imitates Greta Garbo in certain heated split seconds.

The Barrymore Goes Atouring.
Despite the wall that the talking motion pictures have about assassinat-ing the road show business, Ethel Barrymore will extend her tour in "The Love Duel" this summer to the coast, with stops including Colorado Springs, Denver, Salt Lake City, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Night Guards Placed To Watch St. Louis Zoo

est park after the sea lion here had been bombarded by rocks and bottles during the night.

Hurls Powder-Puff; Irishman Arrested

(International News Service)
BALTIMORE, July 12.—Nicholas Flaherty admits "he's Irish" but whether the rest of his clan will consider him eligible to be classed as "an Irisher" remains to be seen.

Mr. Flaherty selected a powderpuff to hurl at a policeman in violation of the "Irish creed." Veteran Celtic admitted in confidence "Flaherty should have thrown nothing if he couldn't get a brick."

But Flaherty threw the powder puff and admitted it. Patrolman Klingel agreed he was struck in the eye with the powder-dauber—the only copper on the force to be assaulted with such a missile! Flaherty was fined $2.45.

Cat, Believe It Or Not, Adopts 5 Baby Rats

CHICAGO, July 12.—Molly a Maltese cat which had been an efficient exterminator of rodents in the warehouse of the Sangamon Paper Grading Company, No. 1445 South Sangamon street, was discovered to be nursing five young unweaned rats.

Charley Kimball, the Negro porter, who discovered Molly in her strange maternal role, rubbed his eyes and ran to the boss, Joseph Cohen. Cohen believed the porter was the victim of hallucination until he saw the spectacle himself.

It was his opinion that Molly had devoured the mother of the brood and then assumed the role of foster mother out of pity or remorse. Molly refuses to allow any one to take the rats from her.

MAKES CHICKEN COOP OF AUTO HOOD COVERS

PIERCE, Ohio, July 12.—Amos Tanner has found a use for hood covers of ancient automobiles that amount to little as scrap iron.
On the Tanner farm here he has many

Caveman Depicted In Chicago Museum

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 12.—The first authoritative lifesize reconstruction ever made of a caveman and his family has been completed by the Field Museum and is on display in Chicago.
The reconstruction represents one of the earliest types of prehistoric man, the apelike Neanderthal or Mousterian man. This race which lived in western Europe at the last glacial period, represents the earliest stage of human existence of which complete skeletons have been found.

It is estimated the race is more than 50,000 years old. The group is the result of the recent Captain Marshall Field archaeological expedition to Europe.

The designer and sculptor of the group is Frederick Blaschke of Gold Spring, N. Y., who accompanied the expedition to Europe.

To Give Message On Bible Prophecy

Rev. Landis To Speak On The Theme "The Wandering Jew's Last Journey"

"The Wandering Jew's Last Journey" will be the subject of the sermon Sunday night at the First Baptist church. This is the third of a series of Bible prophecy which the pastor Geo. M. Landis is giving.

The Jew has been called "a miracle." Persecuted, without country or national ties; he has persevered through the ages his racial identity. This fact demands an explanation. Does the Bible give it? Among other questions which will be considered are: Has God blessed the nations which have persecuted the Jews? Has God forever cast off the Jew or does He still have a plan for them? Is there any prophetic significance to the Zionist movement? Will the Jews ever rebuild the temple at Jerusalem? Do the Jews have a right in the land of Palestine? Will the Jews ever accept Jesus as their Messiah? A cordial invitation is extended to all Jews in the city to attend this service.

The total amounts to $5,311.57, which will be credited as a payment by the athletic council against the cost of the stadium.

Hapsburg Dynasty Sued By Calvinist Clans On Claim Over 200 Years Old

By ALFRED TYRANER
International News Service Staff Correspondent
BUDAPEST July 12.—The dethroned Hapsburg dynasty is now asked to pay for a business transaction, which was concluded by the head of the family more than 200 years ago.

Twenty-five Hungarian communes, inhabited by the headstrong Calvinist clans called the Jasz and Kuns, brought action against the Hapsburgs who still hold large estates and valuable property in Hungary, claiming indemnification of 25,000,000 Pengoes; about $4,000,000, on the ground of the new Hungarian revaluation bill.

His Majesty, Emperor and King Leopold, being rather short of money on account of his various wars, sold these 25 communes in 1702 to the Sovereign Order of German Knights. The wealthy and proud Jasz and Kuns protested, however, and after long negotiations with the fatherly King and Emperor they repaid the purchase price to the Order as ransom for their liberty.

A Royal decree dated from 1715 promised that the ransom will be refunded, one half by the state and one half by the dynasty. During the past two centuries the promise was forgotten, at least by the Hapsburgs, and the communes could never recover their money.

As long as the Hapsburg were the Dynasty the communes petitioned, now they sue the Hapsburg family.

Malt Tonic May Become Medicine

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, July 12.—Malt tonic, favored as a beverage among the thirsty of Western Pennsylvania, today was on its way to becoming a medicine.

Orders have been received from John D. Pennington that brew masters in the future should increase the solids content of the popular tonic from twelve to eighteen per cent. Pennington, district prohibition administrator, issued the order to a number of breweries after exhaustive investigation which revealed, it was understood, that the medicine was being used popularly as a substitute for the foaming stein outlawed by prohibition.

The cross-word puzzle is about gone, but anyway it wasn't as much fun as trying to guess what the talkie is saying.

Washington In Throes Of Blue Law Conflict

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service Special
Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, July 12.—The National Capital looked on with avid interest today as proponents and opponents of the Sunday Blue Law jockeyed about seeking a statement of position from President Hoover.

"To close or not to close" seems to have become the question, with Bishop Cannon, Canon Chase and the Lord's Day Alliance in the affirmative and the National Association opposed to Blue Laws, Inc. the seventh day advocates and a seeming majority of the residents of voiceless Washington in the negative. Both sides of the controversy want a public word from the president; Mr. Hoover does not appear disposed to give voice to that utterance.

The stalwarts of the Lord's Day Alliance started all the disturbance Wednesday when they descended upon the White House and made half a dozen speeches to the executive explaining why congress should be encouraged to pass a bill introduced by Rep. Lankford (R) of Virginia, which would compel the residents of the District of Columbia to do nothing but rest on Sunday.

Not a "Blue Law," remonstrated General Secretary H. L. Bowley at the time, "but a red, white and blue law."

This move of the clergy and laymen from New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, and other eastern points to eliminate movies and baseball in Washington on Sunday brought a prompt counter fire from the National Association opposed to Blue Laws. Prof. Henry Flury, of that organization, announced from New Jersey his intention of coming here at once to lead a demonstration in opposition.

The presses were hardly dry with word of this movement before Bowley and the Rev. David G. Wylie, president of the Lord's Day Alliance, returned to the White House, intent on getting the jump on their adversaries. They wanted, they told Secretary George Akerson in short, a written statement of position from Mr. Hoover in answer to their Wednesday call.

Akerson was most gracious and most diplomatic. Such an answer would be forthcoming, he assured them—"in due time."

The gentlemen of the press called on Akerson immediately following the departure of Bowley and Wylie. Their purpose also was to ascertain just what Mr. Hoover's position was in connection with "red white and blue Sundays." Akerson again proved most genial, but he had nothing to say for publication.

The inference to be drawn, if there was any, was that the president had enough troubles on his hands without being dragged into a discussion of movieless Sabbaths.

As to whether an engagement would be granted Prof. Flury, the secretary could not say. He pointed out that Mr. Hoover was going away today for the week-end, and he added that Flury as yet had not requested an appointment. It also was pointed out that the Lord's Day Alliance leaders did not see the president on the occasion of their second visit.

Bowley, meanwhile, has high hopes for the Lankford bill.

"Sunday is recognized in the constitution," he told reporters, referring to that section which makes the signing of an act of congress illegal on the Sabbath. "You fellows had better look that up and write about it; otherwise, you'll get scooped."

Treasurer McClung Asks For Tax Exoneration Of $27,834.19

Of this $590 was for exoneration of special school taxes for volunteer firemen.

The volunteer exoneration was allowed and the balance of the report taken under advisement.

Warren Minister Delivers Address

Ex-Soldier To Speak At Camp Meeting Service Tonight

Rev. W. F. Goodre of Warren, O., preached before a large congregation Thursday evening at the camp meeting being held each evening at the corner of East Washington and Junior High street.

This evening, Rev. Goodre of Midland, Pa., and ex-soldier will speak. While serving with the American forces during the World War, Rev. Johnson was gassed and wounded. He returned home in a dying condition but God, through answer to prayer, miraculously healed his body and he is now preaching the gospel. He invites all ex-service men to hear him this evening.

Dream That Led Farmer To Bodies Of Lost Babes, Celebrated Yearly

By ALFRED T. NEWBERRY,
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
CUMBERLAND, July 12.—These mountaineers are not superstitious. Some folks tried to have their acquaintance believe they "saw" a young miner killed in 1923 by police during a labor grievance appear one night outside of his old mine at Frostburg. The residents listened to the yarn and then indicated with their fingers to their head that "something was wrong" with the story-tellers.

The dreams the mountaineer experienced are not legend here nor in the adjacent mountain country. They're fact. They will never be forgotten.

To perpetuate the story the residents gather once a year at Pavia, Bedford county, Pa., 40 miles from here to commemorate the remarkable vision that came to Jacob Dibert.

A monument marks the locale of the mountaineer's dreams. Every year the residents gather around it and their services continue all day. The crowd increases in number every year.

The records show that Samuel Cox heard his dogs barking in the woods on the morning of April 14, 1956. He went out with his shotgun to shoot the squirrel he knew his dog had treed. Returning sometime later his two sons George seven and Joseph six were not in the house. He was told they had followed him to the woods. He hurriedly retraced his steps. The still woodlands echoed his yells. After calling for George Joseph to answer he would listen. There would be no sound. The hysterical father returned and summoned his neighbors. A systematized search was started. Each day the searching party increased in number and by the 16th day when practically every section of the countryside was trampled and the searchers abandoned hope of finding the children alive or even their bodies the party totalled 5,000 men.

Dream Appears.
The father returned to his home near Pavia a broken man. It is not chronicled whether Jacob Dibert took part in the search. But 14 days after the boys vanished he dreamed he saw them lying beneath a tree near a stream in Spruce Hollow. The search was still in progress and he told the men of his vision. They didn't believe it.

A day or so later the same dream returned to Dibert. The identical scenes appeared before his eyes and he saw the two little boys lying beneath the tree. This time he did not tell any of those who had been searching for his children to escape further ridicule. He told his brother-in-law Harrison Weyson, the story goes and together they went to Spruce hollow.

Dibert reached the scenes he saw so plainly in his dreams with little difficulty. A carcass of a deer he saw of those two nights as he lay in his blue lodge home was there. Some distance away they found the head of a deer and a little beyond that lay a child's shoe.

Found Bodies.
The two searched around for the tree. Dibert knew what kind it was. Finally he saw it on the other side of the stream. They forded the water and found the two bodies. Joseph was lying with a coat beneath his head. Apparently he died first. George the elder brother, was lying with his head on Joseph's body. The bodies were buried in Union cemetery near Pavia with the monument marking the grave.

A sister of the children is Mrs. Sarah M. Daugherty of Johnstown, Pa. She was four when her brothers left the house that morning. Mrs. Amos Edwards and Mrs. Fred Brown of Alum Bank are also sisters. Samuel Cox, Dale Pa., is a brother. They know the truth of Jacob Dibert's dream. And so do all the folks hereabouts.

Will Test Mail Pickup Device

Will Test Air Mail Pickup At Youngstown; Important To This City

An indication that this city may secure a regular air mail service east and west in the near future is found in the announcement that the new mail pickup device is to be tested for the first time in Youngstown some time the latter part of this month.

The device, according to the announcement, if it proves satisfactory, will be used to gather mail at New Castle, Warren, Beaver Falls and other medium sized cities on the air mail routes.

Announcement concerning the test which was to be made by the Clifford Ball Air Mail company was made some time ago but not until now has any action been taken.

Materials for the erection of the device have been shipped and its construction is expected to take place during the coming week.

Actress Files Another Suit Against Hardinge

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 12.—Franklin Hardinge, elderly oil burner magnate, from whom Ann Livingston won a $25,000 breach of promise verdict, today filed another suit against him, this time for $200,000 on a charge of slander.

The practice of the new suite was filed and this contained no details of the basis for the action.

Mr. Hardinge gave out an interview to the papers several days ago, in which he called her a gold-digger. Ann announced: "Also he said that I had broken up a home. I assume that he was referring to the home of Charles Nax of St. Louis.

"Now I have it on very good authority that Mr. Nax is living with his wife and children. I certainly did not break up his home, nor any home."

"Mr. Hardinge told newspapers that if I appeared on the stage the audience ought to hiss me off."

"Just imagine! I haven't yet collected that $25,000 that I was awarded and I've got to earn my living. He proposes to interfere with my livelihood."

Farice King Treats Fellow Prisoners

(International News Service)
DENVER, July 12.—Buried alive in prison because she killed the man she loved too well "because she couldn't have him," Farice King, a respected trained nurse before her conviction for murder, will not be denied the right to give service to her fellow beings.

Mrs. Jennie Ray, matron of the prison quarters where Farice is incarcerated, mistook a bottle of acid medicine for an eye wash and as she poured the fluid into her eyes she began suffering fearful pain. She called for Farice, for the two had become fast friends.

Miss King came immediately to her side, and through the application of first aid treatment Mrs. Ray's eyes are on the way to recovery.

FEELS BETTER IN EVERY WAY AGED MAN SAYS

Tells How Ten Herbs Ended Indigestion, Constipation and Other Ailments.

"I feel very much better in every way, since taking Ten Herbs," was the recent statement of Mr. John Bell, 112 North Maple Avenue, Greensburg, Pa. "For a long time I had been troubled with indigestion," continued

MR. JOHN BELL

Mr. Bell, who is 66 years of age, and a foundryman. "I would not eat at times because of the pains that followed. Undigested food caused gas to form. There were pains around my heart, and I had headaches. I was also troubled with a hacking cough and was very short of breath. Sharp pains across my back made it almost impossible for me to work. I was so badly constipated that I was continually using strong physics."

"I was told about Ten Herbs by a friend who was working with me, and I started taking your medicine. I am now in much better health than I have been for months. Gas and pains have disappeared, and I can eat in a regular way. I am free of headaches, and the pains have left my back. My bowels are working in a natural manner. That hacking cough and shortness of breath have been relieved. Ten Herbs has helped me so much that I feel sure it will do the same for others if they will give it a trial."

Every day the Ten Herbs Man receives reports telling how people throughout this section have gained freedom from run-down condition, biliousness, indigestion, headaches, nervousness, pains and aches, constipation, rheumatism, and neuritis, after using Ten Herbs.

Ten Herbs is sold at Eckert's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington St., this city, and at all drug and medicine stores throughout this entire section.

Hills tells the truth about a motor fuel's power. Hills will tell you that there isn't a more powerful all-round gasoline on the market than the new-type Atlantic now in every Atlantic pump and service station.

Yet—unlike most so-called "extra-powered" gasolines—Atlantic loses none of the easy-starting, quick pick-up, clean-combustion and high-mileage qualities every motorist wants.

New-type Atlantic does all of the things expected of a good motor fuel—and does them with amazing thoroughness.

And with all its superiorities in performance, think of this: You can get Atlantic most everywhere. No hunting! No inconvenience! . . . The Atlantic distributing system offers you the finest gasoline service you can find.

Night At Bowl

Willie Davies, popular flyweight boxer of Charleston and Marty Gold, Philadelphia, one of the best 112 pounders in the U. S. will box the main 10 round bout at the July Bowl Monday night. April Is Favorite Moving Month Of Farmers Of State

Census Bureau Gives Facts On Choice Of Moving Date
By Farmers

(Special To The News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12.—April is by far the favorite moving month for Pennsylvania farmers, according to the report of the United States census bureau.

Changes of farms in Pennsylvania equal 52.5 per cent of the total changes for the year in the state. March is next with 16.1 per cent of the total changes, and November is third with 4.7 per cent. The lower number of changes in the state take place in August—only 1.2 per cent of the total.

The census bureau report gives the movement of tenant farmers only, but it is a well-known fact that the movement of owners tends to correspond in time with that of tenants inasmuch as changes of farms must be made at the time the farms become vacant, the census bureau report states.

January leads in the changes of farms by tenants in the country as a whole, with 28.7 per cent of the total. March close behind with 24.1 per cent. July ranks lowest in changes in the country at large with only 1.2 per cent of the total.

How's this for a hot-weather dinner?

One of these evenings, when you're exhausted from the heat and nothing tastes good, how would you like to sit down to a dinner like this? An ice-cold fruit cup, jellied chicken and ham, a salad of crisp lettuce with a stuffed tomato in aspic. And, for dessert, a strawberry sundae. Tempting, isn't it? And so pleasantly easy to prepare. Then your General Electric Refrigerator will do the rest. Fifty degrees is accepted by scientists as the "danger point" in the preservation of food. When the temperature rises even a degree or two above that, bacteria multiply, foods become unsafe to eat—a menace to health. In the General Electric Refrigerator the temperature is automatically kept several degrees below fifty—always.

Now, in addition to all its previously proved superiorities, General Electric offers an all-steel warp-proof cabinet! There are now more than 300,000 General Electric Refrigerator users and not one has spent a single dollar for repairs. Prices on the new all-steel models start at $215 at the factory. See them at our display rooms.

Army Mules Trained In Way Of Etiquette

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 12.—Has an army mule good manners? That momentous problem of etiquette is to be solved at the Fort Snelling Military and Civilian Horse show when the judges view the event for three-gaited saddle mules, "conformation and manners to count". The mules have been trained in matters of donkey decorum. They were instructed to start forward motion at the command "Giddap!" and put the brakes on when admonished to "Whoa!". It was set forth how unbecoming it was to them to go into reverse gear when they were supposed to go ahead, and the objectionability of stalling. The mules were taught not to be mulish. The results of all this education are now ready for demonstration. "The big problems with mules," said E. J. Gruber, who will be ringmaster, "is stubbornness. They won't do what you want them to. The worst is trying to get them to back up. Mules are forward-going animals and they balk at backing. As for kicking, mules are not so bad. They don't go over the traces or kick wagons to pieces as often as supposed. That is left for the comic picture mules."

London Doctor Using Alcohol As Anaesthetic

Alcohol Is Injected Into Blood Stream In New Anaesthesia Experiment

SURGEONS PLEASSED WITH RESULT OF TEST

By HOWARD BERRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent
LONDON, July 12.—Alcohol as an anaesthetic was used by a leading London hospital recently for the first time.

Two operations were successfully performed at the French Hospital and Dispensary, and the surgeons and anaesthetists expressed themselves as satisfied with the tests.

The new anaesthetic is ethyl alcohol—ordinary alcohol is injected into the blood stream and produces what is termed intravenous anaesthesia.

Median Doctor.
The discoverer of the anaesthetic, Dr. Miguel Marcia Martin, a famous doctor, claims the principal advantages for intravenous injection of alcohol are:

No danger to the patient.
No unpleasant after effects.
Greater freedom for the operator.
One of the operations was performed on a man with cancer, who was stated to be an alcoholic subject. He woke up ten minutes after the operation fresh and quite happy.
The operation was performed with the diathermy knife, which cannot be used in the case of ether, because of the sparks. The non-inflammable nature of alcohol is regarded as one of the greatest advantages of the new anaesthetic.

Studied By French.
Dr. Charles Desseaux, house surgeon of the French hospital, said they were contemplating using the new anaesthetic at the hospital to test it more fully.

"With the new anaesthetic," he said, "a definite analgesia is prolonged after the operation, which means that the part where the operation has taken place is numbed and the patient has no pain, nor is there any danger to life from the use of the anaesthetic."

No mask need be worn by the surgeon, thus giving greater freedom for the use of instruments.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 12.—When Dick Ainsworth, hardy British immigrant from Wigan, Lancashire, arrived here a few weeks ago he spent his last quarter for a ticket on the Derby in the sweep conducted by the Children's Aid society of Dublin. He went into the Canadian Northland to take a job bushing in the new country.

Yesterday he returned to Edmonton as penniless as he left. "I haven't got enough money to buy a stack of hot cakes," he said to the clerk at the Grand Central hotel, where he had stayed on his way to the bush. "There is a letter here for you," said the clerk.
It contained the announcement that he had won a prize in the sweep and inclosed a draft on the Bank of Montreal, Edmonton, for $780.15.

Historic Gavel For New England Council

(International News Service) from BOSTON, July 12.—Made from New England white pine that for 112 years served as part of the roof of the White House at Washington D. C., a gavel will be used at all meetings of the New England Council, the gift of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association.

The pine from which the gavel was made has a romantic history. Placed in the White House roof when the structure was rebuilt after being burned by the British in 1814, the great truss from which the gavel was made was removed during the administration of Calvin Coolidge.

The rebuilding was found necessary because of sagging caused by the cutting of timbers years ago when extra rooms were constructed.

Boys Hunt Snipes At Camp Phillips

All the boys had a busy and pleasant day at camp Thursday. The snipe hunt took place in the evening and according to the reports from the boys on the hunt a snipe is a cross between a rhinoceros and a mud turtle. The best report of the hunt came from Jimmie Higgins, who claimed that the snipe came toward him in flocks of a hundred and he had to run to camp to save himself.

High point honors of the day went to Hugh Timblin with 185 points. Wilbur Braden was a close second with 180 points to his credit. Scout Charles Ziegler, Harold Morrison and Bill Minter constructed a rustic rail on the bridge to the swimming hole to pass a scalp requirement.

The evening color guards selected by the camp director as the most recently uniformed Scouts were Jimmie Higgins, Bob Wallace, Bob Penman and Dan Ryan. Scouts awarded all colors last night: wayseeker, Bob Franchetti; pathfinder, Willard Martin; John Babcock; Alva Klein; dienst, runner, Bud Gordon; sagamore, Harold Morrison and Bill Minter.

Camp visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gilmore, Mr. and Mrs. Franchetti, Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Agas.

The Dan Boone stockade defeated the Dave Crockett in a battle of baseball by a score of 17 to 5. Members of the winning team were Marshall, Timblin, Newton Workley, Shurey, J. Ziegler, Abbauchio, W. Bayers and C. Ziegler. Second-class knife and axe test were passed by Willard Martin and John Babcock.

The first Scouts to win their way to the Indian village this summer moved into their new quarters this afternoon. A Scout must prove himself to be above the average camper and maintain a high point score for three consecutive days to become a member of the Wakichonze.

The village is in charge of P. L. Ober, chief, and Baldy Watson, medicine man. Indians are Alva Klein, dienst, Harold Aggas, Hugh Timblin, William Beyer, George Bunney and Jerry Workley. The schedule of activities for the balance of the period includes a ghost hike, Scout field day, a water carnival, kite flying contest, 14-mile hike, treasure hunt, Indian village day, Indian pageant by Jamboree Scouts, a submarine chase and many other events, all of which the boys are looking forward to.

Woman Suffers Broken Neck In Auto Accident

(International News Service) GREENSBURG, Pa., July 12.—Physicians at Greensburg hospital said today Mrs. Alice Hood, 68, wife of Rev. Robert C. Hood, of Dormont, Pa., may not live, as result of a broken neck and probably fractured skull she received in an automobile collision.

Witnesses said Rev. Hood's car was struck when it entered the main highway from a side road. Rev. Hood was not seriously injured but his wife was thrown through a rear window of the machine.

The good old days were when a man could obey all the laws just by being decent.

Clara Bow Will Be Married Soon

(International News Service) LOS ANGELES, July 12.—Clara Bow of "It" fame, and Harry Richman, New York actor and night club owner, plan to marry in about five weeks, according to Richman's announcement today.

Miss Bow was ill today in her Beverly Hills home and attendants would not admit interviewers.

BITTEN THIRD TIME BY COPPERHEAD SNAKE
CLAYSVILLE, Pa., July 12.—Harry Sprowls of West Finley township, was severely bitten, on the right leg by a large copperhead snake last night while turning hay.

This is the third time Sprowls has been bitten. He stated that a half dollar would cover the three scars, they are so close together.

Accept Coolidge As Cape Cod Fisherman

(International News Service) NORTHEASTON, Mass., July 12.—Calvin Coolidge, who did not become famous as an amateur fisherman until he became president of the United States, when the discussion over the advisability of trout fishing with worms became nation-wide, has been elected honorary member of the Cape Cod Trout club.

As result, the former executive was expected to avail himself of the privilege by casting for the elusive trout on the estate of his friend, L. P. Handley, wealthy Wareham cranberry grower and fish culturist.

The honorary membership accorded to Mr. Coolidge allows him not only to make use of the well stocked trout preserves of the organization, but also accords him all the privileges of full membership.

Boston And Maine Adds 1,000 New Cars

(International News Service) BOSTON, July 12.—An addition of 1,000 new freight cars of the box car type, with steel frame work and with a 40-ton capacity of the Boston & Maine railroad to be ready for the heavy traffic period this fall.

Delivery of 500 new 70-ton steel hopper cars has been completed and with the added 1,000 new 40-ton cars, the Boston & Maine's ownership will be 13,000 cars, according to an announcement.

The new cars to be acquired will cost more than $2,000,000 but under an arrangement, the B. & M. will pay the manufacturers only the same basis that it would pay day rental for cars of other railroads.

Liars And Lunatics Barred By British

(International News Service) LONDON, July 12.—Liars, lunatics and witches are not eligible for admission to 12 new almshouses built by a local religious charity at Baronet Vale, a small village outside London.

The inmates are to be widows or spinsters over 50, and the authorities in making their selection have to bear in mind the spirit of the conditions laid down by James Ravenscroft, who founded the charity in 1879, that liars, lunatics and witches must not be admitted.

Posses Hunt For Negro Attacker

Accused Of Killing Escort
And Attacking Young Woman

(International News Service)
ENFAULD, Ala., July 12.—State officers are leading an army of possemen in search of a negro who shot and killed Jack Hines, 25, last night, and brutally attacked Miss Beatrice Clark, 18, his companion. They hope to thwart any attempts of lynching the fugitive.

Miss Clark was resting comfortably in a hospital today and physicians believe she will recover. Her arm and head were beaten with the butt of a pistol.

She said she was riding with Hines in his automobile when the negro leaped upon the running board, shot Hines and dragged her from the car. The negro fled in Hines machine which was later found abandoned 32 miles away.

Bloodhounds are being used in the search.

BATTLE BLAZE IN PITTSBURGH

One Man Is Burned Severely Following Explosion In Gas Pump Plant

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, July 12.—One man had been burned severely today following an explosion and fire in the Pennsylvania Gasoline Pump company and the Christ & Sheldon company. The fire forced 41 other employees to the street.

Benjamin Luke, 40, who was working in the basement, was taken to West Penn hospital with burns about the head.

Wood floorings of upper stories ignited by the flames and the interior of the building was rapidly consumed. Firemen donned gas masks because of the heavy smoke and brought the blaze under control in an hour. Damage was estimated at only $5,000 by Fire Chief James Callahan today. Employees believed gasoline had been stored in the basement, but it was not known how it could have been ignited.

NEW TARIFF BILL RATES ARE LIKELY TO BE DECREASED

Keeping their tirade against the measure, but two of the senate's outstanding advocates of high protective tariffs—Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader and Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania—have told the President that many rates in the house bill are too high.

Senate opinion on the house bill crystallized rapidly with completion by senate sub-committees of hearings upon rate schedules. The full finance committee today is engaged in hearings on the free list, with hearings on administrative features to follow.

The action of leaders of the automobile industry in announcing their willingness to accept a cut in the automobile tariff is being used as an argument for lower tariffs in many industries which have achieved almost complete dominance of the world market.

Opinion is varied on the effect of the protests delivered by 25 foreign nations. Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, declared that they would have little effect on the senate's deliberations.

"But, in my opinion," he said, "the real kick against the house tariff bill is with our own people and not with the people abroad. It is the American people who have justification for serious protest. And I myself am giving more attention to that than I am to objections abroad."

"I do not think that in all the history of tariff legislation there has been such an utter disregard of the pledges of a party as are incorporated in the house tariff bill."

Senator Simmons (D) of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the finance committee, renewed his attack on the house bill with the declaration that it is "unfair, discriminatory and dangerous."

The American Farm Bureau Federation, through Chester H. Gray, legislative representative, continued its fight for higher agricultural tariffs.

Appearing before the finance committee, Gray urged that many articles which displace American farm crops as substitutes, including sugar, tapioca, cassava, arrowroot, bananas, waste bagging sugar sack cloth, oil bearing seeds and vegetable oils be removed from the free list and made dutiable.

Virtually the only article which the farm bureau representative asked be left on the free list are agricultural machinery and chemicals which enter into the making of fertilizer.

Both Senator Snoot (R) of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, and Senator Watson were making efforts today to speed up work on the new tariff bill. They are still hopeful of reporting it to the senate on August 15.

In Agreement
WASHINGTON, July 12.—Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader of the Senate, today declared that the President and he are in entire agreement on tariff legislation.

He denied reports of discord which followed in the wake of a conference yesterday between the President, Watson and Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, which led the White House to deny statements attributed to Watson that the President had laid down "an American yardstick basis" of tariff making.

Locusts Coming Giving Life To Superstitions

Great Influx Of Cicadas Expected This Year Throughout The Country

LITTLE HARM FROM INVASION EXPECTED

By SAM A. MINDELL.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

COLUMBIA Mo., July 12.—The locusts are coming. And hundreds of superstitious residents of the Mississippi valley and northern Missouri are anxiously awaiting to see if the 17-year locust will have a "W" on its wings; if it does the soothsayers say it will mean another war will be coming soon.

The Cicada or 17-year locust last appeared in 1912 and the prophets point with fear to the fact that the 1912 variety bore the "W" in the fine membrane of the wing and the World War followed in 1914. Similarly the 1895 locusts had the "V" and the Spanish-American war broke out three years later they say.

Other Signals.

And should the locusts not bear a "W" which means plague or a "V" which signifies famine, and in case they have neither of these letters they are likely to poison the blackberries, inflict deadly stings on babies, poison drinking water, cause livestock to have fits, make trouble generally. In other words they mean trouble believers say.

But Leonard Haseman who is planning to make a study of the insects and who is connected with the Missouri College of Agriculture, indicates all such superstitions and says that the insects harm has been greatly exaggerated.

Only in the regions where the Cicada appears in swarms will it do any harm and then only to the tips of the branches of the trees.

Peculiar Insect.

According to Haseman the Cicada is the most peculiar insect known to exist on earth. It requires nearly 17 years for the insect to pass from the egg through the adult stage. The female place their eggs on trees and plants by means of special drills attached to the under sides of their bodies.

The earliest known visitation of this insect in the United States dates back to 1884. The Cicada is easily recognized by means of its broad head, protruberant eyes and peculiar shrill song. Only the males are made to make this noise and they are equipped for it by means of organs resembling kettles drums which are attached to their abdomens.

Strange Tales Drew Spanish Explorers

(International News Service)
DENVER, July 12.—Not to exploit the Americans for selfish reasons and to keep other nations out did the merchants, planters, soldiers and priests of old Spain come to the western hemisphere, but to search for a race of giant humans and to find a mountain of diamonds.

This was the declaration at Boulder of the University of Southern California before a congress of noted historians in session at the University of California.

Scores of colorful Spanish explorers, Dr. Bolton said, were influenced in their explorations of the new world by strange legends told them by natives through whose lands they passed.

Return Reefs To Hawaiian Control

(International News Service)
HONOLULU, July 12.—Control of all land comprising Pearl and Hermes reefs, a part of the Hawaiian Islands, and reservation, formerly exercised by the secretary of agriculture at Washington, has been transferred to the governor of this territory. Hereafter anyone seeking to establish fishing headquarters on the reefs, such as buildings, must obtain permission from the governor.

Pearl and Hermes are coral atolls several hundred miles west of Honolulu uninhabited most of the year, save for occasional parties of Japanese sampan fishermen who make the voyage from Honolulu and spend a week or more fishing on a commercial scale, as the waters in that vicinity abound with large food fish.

Vermont Railway In Plea For Old Rates

New England Industries Need Protection, Road Asserts

(International News Service)
ST. ALBANS Vt., July 12.—The Central Vermont Railway company filed a brief with the interstate commerce commission urging it to retain the westbound differential freight rates from New England to the west. The commission has for some time conducted a general and searching investigation of freight rates in eastern territory, including New England.

New England lines, the brief reported, were in sympathy with the differential rates, but the Central Vermont railway felt a particular responsibility in having them retained for the benefit of shippers.

The brief asserted that westbound differential rates which have existed from New England to the west for more than half a century were essential to the growth of New England industries and have declared that New England industries have grown and expanded under the benevolent protection of the westbound differentials. It was also asserted that New England industries were not so prosperous as they had been and that it would be unwise to deprive this section of the protection of those rates.

Correct this sentence: "If all the details of my life were made public," said he, "I'd feel no shame."

While teaching children to obey the laws, it might be a good idea to teach them to make good ones.

Auto Casualties To Reach 30,000

Death Toll This Year Will Reach Staggering Figure, Says Expert

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 12.—Thirty thousand people will lose their lives in automobile accidents in the United States this year.

Approximately 1,000,000 more Americans will suffer injuries in motor car smash-ups ranging from broken legs and arms to cuts and bruises.

These startling predictions were made by Clay S. White of Wichita, nationally known safety expert who based his estimates on average increases in automobile accidents in recent years.

"One motor car out of every 900 driven in the United States participates in a fatal accident every year," declared Mr. White. "There are approximately 25,000,000 automobiles in operation in this country. Last year 27,500 deaths resulted from automobile accidents an increase of more than 6 per cent compared with 1928. An average of three people were killed every hour, 75 every day and 530 every week. For every fatal automobile accident there are about 35 non-fatal injuries."

"Analysis of accident records show that twice as many smashups occur at street and highway intersections as at any other location. Preventative measures are vital to combat the appalling death toll. Attention to safety rules and adoption by municipalities of adequate safety marking devices such as flexible rubber signs placed at intersection corners in the direct path of automobiles are vital to safety of the public. Cities which have adopted these rubber stop signs report decreases of 25 to 65 per cent in motor accidents."

Loss from automobile accidents in America amounts to $900,000,000 annually. Figuring the economic value of the average life as worth $10,000 the cost to the nation from 27,500 people killed last year was $275,000,000 alone."

Poincare May Be Next President

Big Difficulty Will Be In Getting Candidate To Accept

(International News Service)
PARIS, July 12.—Premier Raymond Poincare can be the next President of France if he wants to be but it looks more like a second term for Gaston Doumergue.

"First political rumblings put forth this situation without any 'maybes,' although the elections are still eighteen months away."

According to the traditional wiseacres it will not be so difficult to find a successful candidate as to persuade him to accept the nomination.

Poincare finds himself somewhat in the position of George Washington or Calvin Coolidge. Unlike Washington he is not being called upon to set a tradition, although his popularity is undeniable on account of saving the franc. Like Washington, it is widely admitted, he has only to agree and the presidential residence will be his for seven years.

Unlike Coolidge, it is predicted, Poincare will not employ the word "choice" when he is asked to be a candidate.

Aristide Briand, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and co-author of the Kellogg Peace Pact, almost equals Poincare as a "favorite son," but it is pointed out that Briand's health would not permit his presence at numerous hand-shaking functions where the president's patronage is imperative.

I reckon that of all the different kinds of explosions the average explosion of wrath is about the least harmful to innocent bystanders.

A safe and sound Fourth of July should require persons who conduct pistol fusillades in the streets to lay off for at least one day.—The Washington Evening Star.

Dr. Little Calls For Big Families

(International News Service)
DETROIT, July 12.—"I believe in large families," Dr. Clarence Cook Little, retiring president of the University of Michigan, said here after delivering the principal address at the Detroit university school.

"I believe that where the parents are healthy, qualified and able to support children, they should have as large a family as they desire. I am still firm on my opinion that where the parents are unfit or do not desire children they should be allowed the right to practice birth control."

Dr. Little's appearance at the Detroit university school was on a request made several months ago by a close friend, Roscoe B. Jackson, who recently died. Jackson had asked Dr. Little to make the commencement address when his son, Richard Jackson, graduated.

Harbor Meeting

Expect Evangelist Patrick Will Arrive For Meeting

Again a large congregation listened to an extremely interesting sermon delivered by Rev. W. H. Armstrong at the Harbor Tabernacle Thursday evening. The theme of this sermon was based on the saving of lost souls, symbolized in the Bible by the Shepherd seeking the lost sheep.

These services are being held in a large tent on the Youngstown road intersection of the Harbor road. Preceding the sermon was the opening prayer by Rev. Armstrong. Then several hymns were sung by the congregation. John Dunkerly offered another prayer.

A special song number was given by Mr. Walker with Miss Margaret Owey as accompanist. Another hymn of praise was sung by the congregation.

A special number was then sung by Margaret Owey and Margaret Jordan. Mrs. Daugherty accompanied this duet at the piano. Miss Owey gave a personal testimony after the song.

Following Rev. Armstrong's sermon several people of the congregation indicated their desire for prayers. The meeting closed with a hymn of consideration.

Word was received from Rev. Wade Patrick that he would arrive in time to conduct services this evening.

Fear Lingering Death Still Lurks
In Walls, Where Poison
Gas Killed 123

CLEVELAND, July 12.—Fearful of death lingering in the walls of the Cleveland Clinic building where poisonous gases exploded last May and killed 123 persons the directors abandoned plans to remodel the structure and announced today that they will raze it and erect a new building in its stead.

Chemical tests revealed that the brown paste-like residue left by the gases generated by burning X-ray films had penetrated through the masonry and the directors said they feared sufficient heat would cause the noxious fumes to reappear within the building. So penetrating was the gas that brick and mortar were saturated with the substance.

"Leaflet Three, Let It Be" Is Warning In Avoiding Ivy Poison

HARRISBURG, July 12.—"Leaflet three—let it be" is the advice of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters to tourists and forest visitors who would avoid ivy poison.

Some persons appear to be practically immune to poison of the ivy, but this is considered the exception rather than the rule. A word of caution is timely at this season, therefore, when tourist travel and forest camping are reaching the peak of the year. Damp mornings and evenings in the woods, combined with the sultry days of summer, when thousands are seeking the cool of the forest, result in ideal conditions for infection.

The simple rule of safety for those who have not received special antitoxin treatment for ivy is to avoid all three-leaved plants. Avoidance of all three-leaved plants will include some harmless species, but will protect you from the misery of the poison that may take the pleasure out of, and put pain into otherwise delightful days in the woods. "Touch not, taste not," say officials of the department, who warn particularly against the ill advice of chewing the leaves to produce immunity. Such advice, they say, is not only foolish, but dangerous, for severe cases of sickness have resulted.

Poison ivy is known by a variety of local names, such as poison oak, poison creeper, three-leaved ivy, climbing sumac and mercury. The closely related poison sumac has seven to 13 leaflets, but all forms of poison ivy and poison sumac have white berries in late summer and autumn. "Berries white, campers' fright" is therefore good advice against both these poisonous plants. The red-berried sumacs are harmless.

Poison ivy grows both as a vine and shrub and is widely distributed. Poison sumac reaches a height of 10 feet, but due to its restricted distribution in the state and its usual confinement to wet places, it is less frequently met with by the tourist.

Poisoning usually results from touching or brushing against these plants or handling articles that have been in contact with them. Some persons believe they are poisoned when passing the plants, without direct contact, and their belief appears to be well founded.

After exposure prompt measures should be taken to remove the poison, at first confined to the surface of the skin. This can be accomplished by thorough washing and rinsing. Ordinary laundry soap which is strongly alkaline is best for the purpose and hot water should be used. The affected parts should be lathered freely and rinsed completely, and the operation repeated several times.

A five per cent solution of potassium permanganate is a good remedy. The resulting stain may be removed with lemon juice. Fluid extract of grindelia diluted with four to eight parts water is often used, and solutions of cooking soda or epsom salts, applied locally, one or two teaspoonsful to a cup of water, are ordinarily helpful. These solutions may be applied with light and clean bandages, but should be removed at night when the poison surface should be allowed to become dry and exposed to the air. Oily ointments should not be used, as they tend to spread the poison. Afterwards a dressing of zinc ointment hastens healing.

RENEWING CURTAINS

A housewife suggests that when patterned drapes have faded or lost their colors they may be made like new by coloring them with wax crayons. Let the children do it, they will love it and can do it quite well. Just color the pattern with the same colors as it was before and iron on the wrong side with a hot iron. The iron will melt the wax and cause it to spread through the cloth and remain solidly there throughout many washings.

Tramps' School Gives Degrees In Hobology

Tuition Is Free In Latest Night School Of Metropolis

ONLY CREATING WANDERERS WANTED

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 12.—Get a degree of Hobology.

This is the slogan of New York's newest institution—a school of tramps opened by Dan O'Brien, King of the Hoboes.

Tuition—in keeping with the policy—is free and the sessions are held at night only.

Dan himself is president, dean of men, registrar and leading spirit of the school but has assured the world that he will be assisted by "a distinguished faculty of persons well qualified to teach their subjects."

The courses, according to O'Brien, are designed to teach students how to get by without being a weight on society.

Enlarging on the purpose of the institution O'Brien announced that only creative and constructive wanderers are wanted at the school.

Course of Study

The courses of study as outlined by O'Brien are:

"A. Methods of traveling, freight and passenger taps and rods. (Box cars and on the rods.)"

"B. Hitch-hiking and riding on the thumb. (The latter is a gentle gesture of the thumb to indicate to a motorist that a ride is desired, the gentleness being not to frighten him. Honest hoboes would never think of frightening any one.)"

"C. Where to jungle up or boil up. (Where to cook, sleep and bathe. These places are institutions along the highway, perhaps close to a babbling brook, a cool lake or tank and near a shade tree.)

"D. How to Boil Up Successfully. The use of ant heaps in chasing seam squirrels or crumbs. (Seam squirrel is a tony term for body lice. The idea is to lay the clothes out near an ant heap—they will eradicate the lice.)

"Don't Forget Mulligan

"E. Mulligan making. What the ingredients are and how to get them. The use of meat ends. (Mulligan is the universal beef stew of hoboes better than any steak at the swellest hotel, a mixture of greens irrespective of nationality, previous condition of servitude, garlic, stale bread, potatoes, onions, apples and meat.)

"F. How to get by in the city. The methods of buy and beg. Where to flop with or without dough. How to avoid worry along the flop line. Methods of keeping clean.

"G. How to avoid cans (jails). How to avoid yard bulls (yard detectives). How to save them. How to avoid town clowns (small town cops) constables and city dicks when pursuing the peaceful way of a hobo.

"H. Jungle language or hobo living. How, when, and where to utilize it."

Gives Opinion On Teaching Evolution

(International News Service)
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 12.—Teaching in the tax-supported schools of Arkansas that man descended from a lower order of animals is a violation of the anti-evolution law adopted by the voters last November, but teaching that man descended from a lower order of mankind is not, according to an opinion given by Attorney General Hal Norwood, today.

The opinion was in reply to an inquiry from the Rev. O. C. Harvey, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Stuttgart, who desired to know if the book entitled "The Three Dwellers" used in the Stuttgart schools complies with the anti-evolution law.

"But we have already received several reports of smuggling on the Kansas line, and also across the river from Iowa," Dr. Bass said. "It seems likely that the problem will have to be met by putting a man or men in the field to patrol the borders and to intercept the smugglers."

"There is a good profit in it for them. We hear that they are hauling gasoline in from Kansas, failing to report the purchase in that state, and selling it here at four cents a gallon above the normal retail price. They pay no tax in Kansas and get the benefit of the tax here, they cheat both states and make a handsome profit."

B. & O. Installs Club Smokers For Women

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 12.—American women battering constantly on the stronghold of masculine privilege have successfully stormed another important fortification.

Though women for several years have invaded the railroad club cars, thereby nullifying the male right of free speech, until now they have been definitely classed as intruders, who generally smoked their smoke and hurried away.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad, however, has tacitly admitted feminine capture of this stronghold by establishing, on its Washington-New York line, a single-standard car divided into a smoking room for both sexes and a living room, both fitted with comfortable chairs and settees, library table and writing desk.

Boys Insure Windows Against Baseballs

SHEBOYGAN Wis., July 12.—The Lincoln School Window Casualty company, organized by school children here to insure against breakage of windows during ball games on the school playground, believes it operates with the smallest working capital of any company in the world.

One hundred and thirty-three policies has been sold by its authorized agent at ten cents each, yielding a capital fund of $13.30 and indicating that agents' commissions are not paid by this company.

One policy holder recently smashed a long hit—and a window. Company authorities reported the matter to school officials and a settlement was effected, both sides announced.

Cimarron Salt Crop Is Being Harvested

(International News Service)
COLDWATER, Kas., July 12.—The harvesting of the salt crop along the flats of the Cimarron River here, is under way.

The flats produce salt in such great quantity that the farmers scoop it into trucks and haul it to their farms. This year the yield is about average, the salt covering the flats, measuring more than two inches in depth.

Many Comanche County stockmen obtain their year's supply in this way. Other farmers obtain it to sell.

TOLD TO SHOOT HORSE, COP TAKES HIM HOME

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 12.—Assigned to the task of shooting an old horse, Policeman George Pestka, of Evanston, could not bring himself to do execution, so he adopted ancient custom for the rest of his life, thus preserving his feeling and saving his job on the force.

DIES OF LOCKJAW

(International News Service)
KANE, Pa., July 12.—What might have been a fireworks fatality was reported here today with the death of George Rahm, four, in the Community hospital. Lockjaw was given as the cause of death.

The boy was taken ill Monday and rushed to the hospital, where physicians worked over him constantly in an effort to save his life. It was said the child contracted lockjaw through a cap pistol burn on his face, or because of a nail wound in his foot.

"This was the first lockjaw fatality reported here this year."

Nebraska Is Faced With Problem Of Gas Smuggling

Raising Of Tax Results In Lucrative Profit For Bootleggers

LINCOLN, Neb., July 12.—For the first time in history, Nebraska will be faced shortly with a "customs" problem, a problem which may make necessary the guarding or patrolling of two of her boundary lines, that dividing the state from Kansas on the south and the Missouri river separating Nebraska from Iowa on the east.

The reason is that the lucrative practice of smuggling gasoline across from Kansas and Iowa has begun with the four-cent gasoline tax law, according to Dr. T. W. Bass, collector of the gas tax here.

While the Nebraska gasoline tax was two cents a gallon, Dr. Bass said, there was no smuggling trouble, because the rate was either the same or higher in the bordering states. But when the Nebraska tax went up to four cents and the tax in Iowa and Kansas was boosted to only three, it made possible a smuggler's profit of a clear cent a gallon for hauling the petrol across the state lines. In South Dakota, Wyoming and Colorado, Dr. Bass said, the tax is four cents, so that there is no trouble on the borders.

"But we have already received several reports of smuggling on the Kansas line, and also across the river from Iowa," Dr. Bass said. "It seems likely that the problem will have to be met by putting a man or men in the field to patrol the borders and to intercept the smugglers."

"There is a good profit in it for them. We hear that they are hauling gasoline in from Kansas, failing to report the purchase in that state, and selling it here at four cents a gallon above the normal retail price. They pay no tax in Kansas and get the benefit of the tax here, they cheat both states and make a handsome profit."

Paper Company Selling Newspaper Interests

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN

International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 11.—The International Paper company is getting out of the newspaper publishing business, it has been definitely disclosed.

W. M. Hurlbut, vice president of the International Paper company and the International Paper & Power company, of which the former is a subsidiary, confirmed reports that the company is negotiating to dispose of all of its newspaper holdings.

"Yes, the reports are true," Mr. Hurlbut told International News Service. "However, these investments will not be closed out immediately. It will take some time—how long, I do not know."

The International Paper company, it will be recalled, was subjected to criticism in recent months after Archibald R. Graustein, president of the International Paper & Power company, revealed in testimony before the federal trade commission that it held large financial interests in 13 newspapers.

Nine newspapers are involved in the negotiations now in progress. The interests in the other four papers were sold back some weeks ago in the midst of the controversy attendant upon Graustein's disclosures before the federal trade commission.

Graustein sailed for Europe on the White Star liner Majestic.

Knoxville Painter To Exhibit Nudes

(International News Service)

KNOXVILLE, July 12.—Members of the board of Melrose art center here have agreed to let Ed. Hurst, young Knoxville artist, exhibit a group of nude paintings along with other pictures he painted last winter in New York at an art school.

"We do not make a practice of exhibiting nude pictures," a board member said, "but these are inoffensive and as everyone knows, it is part of an artist's training to learn to draw the figure."

However, the nude paintings are placed in a separate room from other art work, and "if anyone does not care to look at them they don't have to," the board member explained.

Nuptial nooses are being undone today in the Lawrence court house, or at least many of them are in the course of being undone. It is divorce court day and men and women who have tired of the yoke of married life are telling their stories to the court.

One case met a curt rebuff from Judge Hildebrand. The case of Johns vs. Johns was on and a Mrs. Van Horn, an aunt of the husband was testifying. She testified that she had known of the wedding only about three months ago. Later she testified that she had asked Mr. Johns a year ago why he wasn't living with his wife. Judge Hildebrand asked her to explain the two statements and when she couldn't he dismissed her from the stand without hearing any further testimony.

Brigade At Mt. Gretna Prepares For Hard Training

(International News Service)

CAMP THOMPSON, Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 12.—The personnel comprising General William McLean's 53rd field artillery brigade at the national guard encampment here, today divided up into regimental formations. The 100th field artillery, which is encamped at Colebrook, two miles from here, assembled their batteries and undertook a road march of several miles. Later in the day the men of the 109th marched to the reservation pistol range for marksmanship practice.

The regiment's technical and staff officers, with Col. Eric Fisher Wood, of Pittsburgh, worked out highly involved war problems on maps and paper in preparation for the coming bivouac.

Today was turned over to the men in camp at Camp Thompson for the camp championship track and field meet at Athletic Bowl with Brigadier General Edward Martin, commander of the 55th Infantry Brigade in charge of the athletic events.

Athletes from every unit in camp assembled at the huge bowl today and headed by bands, the track and field stars paraded around the track and took positions designated for each unit. Several thousand spectators assembled around the bowl to witness the events.

No District Plan Printing Contracts As Yet Awarded

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 12.—Although the district printing plan of awarding contracts for minor items at state institutions was approved by the attorney general's office and 14 normal school superintendents, no awards will be made pending further study of the situation, John C. Dight, director of publication said today.

The hitch in awarding of contracts on which bids were opened yesterday followed criticism of the district plan by a lower bidder in one district who wanted to have his bids considered in the other 13.

According to Dight the district plan was inaugurated on the demand of normal school superintendents who objected to centralization of all printing in the general contract to be awarded only with the approval of State officials here, formerly insubordinations had been allowed to handle their own printing but under new provisions of the administrative code it was made compulsory to centralize it.

Bus To Park Near Penn-Ohio Station

Coulthard And Horner To Agree
On New Parking Space

C. C. Coulthard, superintendent of the local division of the Penn-Ohio Coach Lines system and Police Chief

Horner today were delegated by city council, in session at the city building, to confer and if possible secure another parking place for the New Castle-Cleveland, O., buses, which have parked in front of the P-O station, East Washington street.

It is likely the buses will be allowed to park for 10 minutes at certain periods in front of the Central Presbyterian church. Coulthard said that during Sundays he would make arrangements to not have the bus park there but in the near vicinity.

Councilman Burns told councilmen that a citizen had objected to the bus parking too near a fireplug at East Washington street and the public square. Coulthard was agreeable to a change but said it should be made near the station where a waiting room and comfort station had been established for the waiting passengers and which is used by the public. Council agreed with his views and delegated Chief Horner and Coulthard to settle the question.

Elk Scouts Have Meeting Thursday

Elks Troop First Aid Team Will Compete In Pittsburgh
Saturday

The Elks Boy Scout troop No. 5 held its weekly meeting in the Elks home. The meeting was in charge of William Haley, scoutmaster, who was assisted by Bob Allen. Committeeman DeArment was present.

The troop's first aid team, which won the Tully trophy, gave a demonstration. Dr. Parlett of the Johnson Cement company, a first aid doctor, was present and congratulated the boys on their wonderful work. Mr. Leslie of the Bell telephone company at McKeesport, a Red Cross first aid instructor, coached the boys in their first aid work. Mr. Leslie is also the scoutmaster of the oldest Boy Scout troop in Pennsylvania. Mr. Miller, superintendent of safety at the Carnegie Stele company, praised the boys for their good work.

The first aid team is composed of Bob Brown, Bill Fair, Henry Brown, Tony Mick, Sandy Howard and Joe McConahy. The team will go to Pittsburgh Saturday, July 13, to enter the western Pennsylvania first aid meet. They will represent the Carnegie Stele company of New Castle and the Elks Boy Scout troop No. 5. The team is under the leadership of Scoutmaster Haley and has been practicing very hard for the last month. The next practice will be held July 12 in the Elks home at 7:30 with Mr. Haley in charge.

After the first aid demonstration, the boys elected Earl Davis as a member of the troop. Scout Vic Wagner brought him into the troop.

Each boy entered a name for their outside meeting place. Name selected was "Elks Retreat" and was submitted by Mr. DeArment. Fifteen or more boys from this troop will attend scout camp this summer. The Elks club will pay half the expenses of the boys.

In August the Elks club plans to have a family picnic. The troop received an invitation to attend. The first aid team will be in charge of the first aid team of the troop.

Noeman L. Cotton is a new assistant scoutmaster of the troop. On Monday, July 8, the following boys: Raymond Haley, Vic Wagner, Harry Brown, Bob Brown, Sandy Howard, Bill Fair and Joe McConahy posted bills in town announcing the Elks air circus to be held at Greenville.

The next meeting will be held at the old coke ovens, which is called the "Elks Retreat", on Thursday, July 12, at 7:30. The meeting will be in charge of Scoutmaster Haley. All scouts are requested to be present.

JURY RECOMMENDS BRAINS BE EXERCISED

By ALFRED J. NEWBERRY
International News Service Staff
Baltimore, July 12—It all happened because Lindbergh tripped down the steps leading to West North avenue's Garden club and crashed his body through the glass door.

The federal grand jury met in secret conclave to discuss the "Lindbergh incident" and other things that have been aired before them. In short, they do not admire Lindbergh in any particular and far from idolize him for his unsuccessful attempt to emulate "One-Eyed" Connolly by entering a place without paying or where he was not wanted nor invited.

ence Lindbergh if he had known he was one of Maryland Prohibition Administrator Herbert's snoopers. The law must be enforced, Mr. Carter agrees, and Mr. Carter does not say he sells contraband liquors, although the raiders claimed they seized bottles supposed to have contained whiskey.

Was Not Invited.
Roy Carter is master of ceremonies at the Garden club. He runs the place and knows who's present. This Lindbergh fellow was not invited by Mr. Carter nor did Uncle Sam send him an invitation to enjoy the entertainment at the club. Such "invites" are identified in legal circles as search warrants.

The falling, raising Lindbergh had none and the federal commissioner growled out "case dismissed."

So much for Agent Lindbergh. Now the federal jurors meeting. They recommended to Federal Judge William Coleman that the "use of force rather than brains by prohibition agents in securing evidence against violators of the Volstead act was unwarranted."

They are uncertain whether Agent Lindbergh failed to use his brains or actually used his body as he claimed. Anyway the tried and true grand jurors asked that dry agents "employ common sense" when they make raids.

Not the "Col."

No One To Blame But Self

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

"EACH ONE OF US SHALL GIVE ACCOUNT OF HIMSELF
TO GOD" Romans 14:12

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

During the eleven years preceding the destruction of Jerusalem while Jeremiah was prophesying in Jerusalem, Ezekiel was prophesying to his people who like himself had been carried away in an earlier captivity in the land of the Chaldeans. And it is interesting to note that the frame of mind of his hearers in Chaldea was much the same as that of Jeremiah's hearers back in the homeland.

Both prophets found the people prone to engage in that ancient and popular indoor and outdoor sport of "passing the buck" or of attempting to shift the responsibility of their situation to someone other than themselves. Adam began the venerable custom when he said "the woman thou gavest me" and we have been at it ever since.

Sour Grapes.
In Jeremiah, Chapter 31 we found that the people in Jerusalem were refusing to see that they were in any sense personally responsible for the ills they were suffering and were seeking to comfort themselves by blaming their punishments upon the sins of former generations as they quoted a familiar and popular proverb, "The fathers have eaten sour grapes and the children's teeth are set on edge."

Now ten years later, another group a thousand miles away in a strange land confront another prophet with the same proverb as their explanation of the captivity they were suffering. To this Ezekiel entered a stout denial, saying "Wait, mean ye that ye use this proverb concerning the land of Israel saying, 'The fathers have eaten sour grapes and the children's teeth are set on edge?'"

As I live saith the Lord God ye shall not have occasion any more to use this proverb in Israel. Behold! all souls are mine; as the soul of the father, so also the soul of the son is mine; the soul that sinneth it shall die. In other words everyone stands upon his own feet before God. Responsibility is becoming a personal matter rather than a corporate or national matter.

The Lord gave Ezekiel a simple parable of a watchman placed on duty to warn the people of the approach of an enemy and reminded him of the peril of the sentry who should fail to sound the alarm at the approach of an enemy. "So thou son of man I have set thee a watchman unto the house of Israel therefore hear the word at my mouth and give them warning from me. Should he prove faithless in warning the wicked God would require their blood at Ezekiel's hands.

The Sinner's Responsibility.
It was indeed a stern message for a day when sternness was demanded and the people were prone to question the mercy of God. So Ezekiel was commissioned to "say unto them As I live, saith the Lord God I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live; turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for why will ye die O house of Israel?"

The goal and object of this message of personal responsibility was not the destruction of God's people but their repentance from sin.

The people were charging God with injustice; Ezekiel proved that God was absolutely just. But we need more than justice at God's hands. We need the mercy and grace of a Saviour who gives himself a ransom for our sins. This is the clearer light which has come to us through the cross in which justice is satisfied and mercy made possible.

(The International Uniform Lesson for July 14 is Ezekiel 18: 1-32; 33: 1-20, the subject being "Ezekiel Teaches Personal Responsibility and the Golden Text 'Each one of us shall give account of himself to God.' Rom. 14:12.)

USE OF COLOR DISTINCTIVE FEATURE OF MODE

Frances Clyne, New York fashion designer, says that a new note pervades the style centers today of which the distinctive feature is the use of color. Two of her creations, which combine youthfulness and sophistication, are pictured. At the left an afternoon model of soft rose flat crepe with pleated skirt and coatlike bodice. Jones Law Fails To Boost Price In Speakeasies

Stern Competition Results In Price Being Kept Down

EXERCISE CARE IN CHOOSING PATRONS

By JOHN RANDOLPH
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON July 12.—The national capital, settling back to watch the operation and effects of the Jones "five and ten" law, has come with some surprise to the conclusion that its effects upon the consumer here are practically negligible but are somewhat more considerable on the producer and distributor.

Although it is ancient custom for the consumer of any product to pay and pay, when production is restricted, the law of competition seems to have eased his burden this time.

For although the capital's bootleggers have become wary and have watched with considerable uneasiness the sentences handed down for convictions here, the prices have gone up only in the speakeasies, where there is a general increase of about 10 cents a "shot".

Prices Stay Down

The gentlemen who deliver but do not sell at their places of business at first were inclined to jump their prices, but stern competition has brought them back to the old figures, particularly on the staple product, gin.

Methods of supply, however, have undergone some significant changes—significant because they show the distributors are really afraid of the new law.

Many of the speakeasies are closing, because raids easily procure convincing evidence. Those remaining open are more careful of their "clientele".

But the bootleggers who only deliver are continuing their operations, deciding, however, more elaborate systems to keep police from their supply bases.

They, poor fellows, are in the anomalous position of having to be extremely careful of their trade—protecting against the informer—and desiring not to lose it. They want a good, safe clientele, but don't want to take chances of getting it.

Alcohol Goes Up

Their alcohol has gone up about two dollars a gallon, due to the increased hazards of alcohol running, but the price has not settled to a fixed basis. Formerly this price was a constant and computable running expense.

But now the alcohol runners, in addition to taking greater chances in the most hazardous branch of supplying the insatiable thirst of the city, also must often risk an additional five-year sentence by carrying a smoke screen.

Since he already is risking a five-year sentence and a $10,000 fine, often he jumps all his chances in one and takes on an additional risk to protect the first. Several smoke screen outfits already have been captured.

In the few convictions so far obtained against violators the sentence has been from a $2,000 to a $3,000 fine and from two to three years imprisonment. But if few have been convicted few have been brought to trial. Several have taken guilty pleas and one was freed.

The Washington consumer, who expected the Jones law to bring soaring prices, gets it just as easily and gets it just as cheaply. When the government hits its stride and begins to really tighten up on the trade it may be different, but he is doing no waiting yet.

Wood Borers Riddle Old Hawaii Palace

(International News Service)

HONOLULU, July 12.—Termite have so riddled the old Palace building in this city with their wood boring activities, that the structure will have to be remodeled and renovated from basement to attic.

During the reconstruction period, the governor and the secretary of the territory, who now have their offices in the old palace, will move to a downtown hotel. Most of the work will be done in concrete, as it has been found practically useless to attempt to build with new wood against these insect invaders.

PITTSBURGH PROBE HAS BEEN CONCLUDED

By FRANCIS L. ARMSTRONG
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, July 12.—The United States senate investigation into alleged vote frauds in Allegheny county, during the senatorial contest won by William S. Vard against William B. Wilson in 1926, may be resumed later in Washington, if warranted, Senator Charles W. Waterman, Republican of Colorado, and Senator George H. Moses, Republican of New Hampshire, had made this statement today following conclusion of hearings this week.

The investigation had been conducted by Senator Waterman, chairman of the senate sub-committee on election contests, into the cases in which four Homestead, Pa., election districts and two districts in Pittsburgh held the spotlight. Election boards in these districts had pleaded guilty or no defense in recent criminal trials.

"If it transpires that there is any further questioning to be done in connection with these cases in the Pittsburgh area, we will call witnesses to Washington," Senator Waterman said after the hearing had been adjourned generally.

A review of the investigation, which began Monday, today revealed that it had, apparently, proceeded in reverse gear.

Mrs. Susan Uhrin, election board member of the second district, second ward, Homestead, was the first witness. She testified to "controlled" politics, ballot box stuffing and other frauds. The last witness was District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, who testified that out of the 1,436 election districts in Allegheny county, a careful and "thoroughly" investigation had revealed only six where there was suspicion of any fraud.

Between the picture of corruption sketched by Mrs. Uhrin and that of the "localized condition" drawn by District Attorney Gardner, was the testimony of more than 80 witnesses, most of that testimony was purely negative. Many election board members testified they pleaded guilty without knowing the charges against them. Others pleaded no defense without knowing what that plea meant. Some admitted knowing of irregularities, but in nearly every instance they said they did not know the seriousness of these irregularities until they had been indicted.

Mrs. Uhrin's testimony that Joseph Franks of Homestead was a political "boss" who changed ballots at will had found little confirmation from other witnesses, when the hearings closed.

There had been no testimony during the recent trials, since all the defendants pleaded either guilty generally, or no defense, which is tantamount to a plea of guilty.

However, Gardner said when he voluntarily explained the convictions to the committee yesterday, that the cases which had been tried by his office represented strong cases in support of the fraud and conspiracy charges.

The final picture drawn by testimony at the hearings was, apparently, that there had been fraud in six districts, and that sufficient grounds had not been found to sustain charges in the others of the 1,436 in the county.

60 French Bankers Jailed In Frauds

(International News Service)
PARIS, July 12.—Sixty bankers are languishing behind the bars in the large Parisian jail, the Sainte prison. These unhappy financiers are all of them involved in the banking scandals which shook France a short time ago and cost depositors thousands of dollars.

None of them are receiving special consideration by the prison employes, it is stated, and they are given exactly the same treatment as is meted out to the second story men, dope sellers, and other "bad birds" with whom they are domiciled.

If they can pay for it, they may purchase a blanket and a pillow and food superior to the prison menu. Otherwise they fare none too well.

Indiana Prisoner Saws Way Into Jail

(International News Service)
LEBANON, Indiana, July 12.—Many prisoners have saved their way out of jail, but Emmett Scott, 46, of Lebanon probably was the first one to saw his way into the bastille.

When Sheriff L. M. Sandlin arrested Scott on a statutory charge he found he had lost the keys to the jail. The officer, undaunted, bought a set of hack saws from a hardware store and forced his prisoner to saw his way into his place of confinement.

An extra large supper was Scott's reward.

Youth Admits He Turned In False Alarm Last Night

Harry Ruha, 19, Of Harrison Street Is Held For Court Today

Harry Ruha, aged 19, of 824 Harrison street, was held for September term of criminal court after a hearing before Alderman Walter T. Hamilton this morning, charged with falsely pulling a fire alarm box. Bail in the sum of $500 was set by Alderman Hamilton, in default of which, Ruha was sent to jail.

Ruha was caught after a chase by Officer Dukes about 3:30 this morning. He had turned in an alarm from box 56. Officer Dukes answered the alarm in the police car, in addition to the Fifth and Central fire companies. Arriving on the scene, he was told by James Thomas, that he had seen a man standing near the box as if awaiting the firemen but when they arrived on the scene, he was nowhere to be found.

Officer Dukes was asked to go to box 49 at Long avenue and Williams street, from whence a number of false alarms have been turned in lately. On his way to the location, he saw a man run across Long avenue and disappear behind the houses. He gave chase and finally caught him. Officer Dukes brought him to the Central station where he was confronted by Assistant Chief Stockman. Ruha told Stockman that he had turned in the alarm, but blamed the act on being drunk. For a drunk man, he showed remarkable agility, when chased by Dukes, and it was decided to hold him for a hearing before the mayor. However, after a discussion with police officials this morning, Fire Chief Lynn decided to make an information against him.

Reinhart, flying the Angeleno, soared past all endurance records in their flight to establish a new air record. Photo shows the ship refueling in air. Blacksmith Reaps Harvest As Specialist Shoeing Saddle Horses When Auto Comes

By JACK A. BRADBURY
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 12.—What has become of the old-fashioned village blacksmith with his anvil and his brawny arms? Has he ceased to exist because of the "horseless carriages"?

At least one Kansas City blacksmith has continued to ply his trade, and, strange as it may seem, is more than "keeping the wolf from his door," so to speak.

Jess Wallace, the city blacksmith now instead of the village "smithy," has become a specialist in his line of work, shoeing only riding horses and polo ponies.

Years ago Wallace bought a blacksmith shop here and was making fairly good money until the business began to drop off with the appearance of motor cars. He knew that he would have to do something in order to make both ends meet.

An idea struck him. In every line of work there are specialists. Why not a specialist in the blacksmith business? He decided to give it a try and since then has not regretted it.

He works on what he calls the "barn-to-barn business." Instead of having his customers visit his place of business, he takes his "portable blacksmith shop," placed in a truck, which is fully equipped, and goes to the home of his customer.

His "clientele" now includes about 300 saddle horses and polo ponies, all of the finest stock, whose owners are as particular about the shoes of their horses as they are about the shoes they themselves wear. With his specialty of two types of horses, Wallace makes shoes to order, something the ordinary blacksmiths did not do.

He makes a special shoe for polo ponies which enables them to stop quickly.

Wallace is looking forward to the time when his business will expand into the "chain field" which is highly possible.

Old Time Resident

Visits In City

John Gabberino of Chicago, former resident of the city who left the city in 1887 going west to Chicago, is back in the city for a visit and is spending his time with old time friends such as Louis Tardella of Fairmont avenue and others whom he knew while residing in this city many years ago. He is well acquainted with many of the older families of the city, the members of which are glad to greet him after so many years. He is much surprised at the changes here. He is now clerk of a criminal court in Chicago.

She was turned over to the alderman today and placed in the county jail.

MEN MAKE TROUBLE

Officers Moore and Thomas answered a call to the Lincoln Lunch-room at 118 Long avenue last night and arrested Vito Pagley and Ralph Austin, who were engaged in an argument there. Austin put up a fight of $10 for his appearance today but did not appear and his money was forfeited to the city. Pagley was fined $5 by the mayor.

Excellent Chances Offered By Army

New Ruling Makes Service In China Very Attractive At This Time

The United States Army is offering many wonderful opportunities at all times to young men of this country, who might desire to serve their country and at the same time, be paid well, and have an opportunity of seeing the world and also have an opportunity to learn a trade and receive an education.

One of the most attractive foreign service posts in the past has been that of China and it has been made still more attractive by the recent ruling of the war department, which provides that a man may not be held there any longer than two years, if he so desires.

Among the attractive places now open are those in the Philippines and field artillery in the Philippines and Hawaiian Islands. Full details of all such opportunities to better their condition is afforded young men at the city hall recruiting station in charge of Corporal J. W. Thompson.

Slippery Rock Is Back To Normal

Since Thursday the Slippery Rock Creek which was the highest it has been in many years at this season of the year, has dropped fully four feet and its stream was almost normal today.

At the Boy Scout camp where certain rustic bridges and swimming apparatus was endangered and had to be protected the water had receded to such an extent last night that the scouts were busy putting things in first class shape again.

It is anticipated that swimming which had to be abandoned in account of high water can be resumed not later than this evening or in the morning.

Bad Check Artist To Paint Portraits

Imprisoned In Michigan Penitentiary, Man Develops In- to Artist

(International News Service)
LANSING, Mich., July 12.—James Bullock convicted bad check artist who has developed into a nationally known portrait painter during his imprisonment at Marquette is being released only to face another forgery charge at Long Beach, Cal., Arthur D. Wood parole commissioner announced.

Bullock has been in prison at Marquette since 1920 when he was sentenced from Kalamazoo for drawing $30,000 of worthless checks on Chicago banks. He was wanted at the time in California, Illinois and Pennsylvania on similar charges.

During his imprisonment at Marquette, prison officials, discovering a latent artistic ability encouraged him to study art. His portraits in oils of children have become well known. A portrait of George F. Alter former attorney general of Pennsylvania was recently painted by Bullock for the Pennsylvania Bar association.

PAYS STIFF FINE;
DISORDERLY CHARGE

As Officer John Gollis was coming to work last night, he came upon James Dudas of No. 12 Trorer avenue, in his car on South Jefferson street, which had all the appearances of having been in a wreck. There was some indications that Dudas had been under the influence of liquor, but he denied that he had had anything but beer, and only a glass of it. A pint bottle in which there was about a spoonful of liquor was found in the car. He was assessed a fine of $25 when he appeared before the mayor.

Scientists have provided an amplification for almost everything now except the still small voice.

Queer Flying Boat

Built 22 Years Ago, It Never Flew, But Attracted All Sorts Of Attention And Caused Much Shaking Of Heads

hat; assistant is in the boat. Motor had not yet been installed.

By CHARLES EUGENE FISHER
Central Press Correspondent

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 12.—Dedication recently of the municipal airport here brought to mind that C.
H. "Doc" Hottum, former beer agent,
a horseman, motorboat enthusiast, steamboat operator, cotton broker, swimming promoter of national fame and wrestling impresario, attempted to build an amphibian plane "way back in 1907—22 years ago.

It was the first airplane in Memphis and Tennessee and probably the south. He and a German mechanic—he has forgotten the fellow's name—built it. They spent six months and hundreds of dollars—
"And then we were afraid to fly it," Doc confessed. "After we had finished it and stood off and looked it over, we decided that neither of us wanted to be fool enough to go up in it."

Plenty Of Levers

"You see, in building the thing we made only one seat—the pilot's. But we had enough controls to keep six men busy. We started building it on my wharfboat in Wolf river, and we finished seven miles away at the Fairgrounds.

"We used piano wire, bamboo strips and some kind of special cloth.

"We created a sensation, all right.
People would come out and stand and gaze at it. Some would shake their heads and call us crazy, and others would encourage us. In those days I was operating four steamboats and also was the owner of the "Kitty Hawk," the fastest motorboat in the world. I conceived the idea of building a plane that would take off from either land or water.

"I didn't execute the idea so well, but so far as I know I am the originator of the amphibians in airplanes.

Always Adding Something

"The mechanic who worked with me used to get an idea once in awhile and put in another prop or hang on another wing. And the matter of lateral balance used to worry us like the dickens. We consumed many a bottle of beer at the corner saloon trying to figure out that balance.

"In 1909 I went to Louisville and bought a Curtiss plane and had it shipped here. A fellow named Harry Hoover and I put it together. He also, wanted to be an aviator.

"We tried our derndest to fly.

"And all the time my wife was simply raising the dickens. The motor would get hot after running 10 minutes and start spitting fire. Finally the thing burned up. That ended my career as an airplane owner, but I still like to fly."

'Electric Chair' For Pittsburgh Police

However, 'Tis Not An Instrument Of Death, But One Of Life

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, July 12.—It's the electric chair for every policeman in Pittsburgh, whether or not he favors capital punishment.

But, Dr. Daniel E. Sable, chief surgeon of the police and fire departments, adds hastily, the coppers won't "burn". In fact, he expects their health to be increased.

The "electric chair" is the fertile minded Dr. Sable's latest idea for increasing the health and lustiness of the city's police and probably, firemen.

The chair resembles the instrument of execution, in general appearance.
It is known as a "combination vibratory chair," and it shakes like Gilda
Gray never shook. The result, Dr.
Sable hopes, will be to jar away lumbago, flat feet or laziness, or anything else with which the city's finest might become afflicted.

Tennis, golf and other sports will be unnecessary for policemen in the future, according to the assurances of Dr. Sable.

Reducing vibrators also have been added to the police equipment, to insure trim waists on the minions of the law.

Magnet Runs New Perpetual Machine

Inventor Makes No Effort To Put Machine To Practical Purpose

(International News Service)
RUSHVILLE, Ind., July 12.—The latest "perpetual motion" machine is the invention of Morton Conner, Rushville inventor and former newspaper man.

The device is operated solely by magnetism. To escape defect which have prevented the success of similar inventions, Conner has originated a method of causing the magnets to reverse themselves, the poles alternating their positions automatically without human assistance.

The poles of magnets with concave, beveled edges are located on the ends of a fulcrum which raises and lowers itself automatically. The round magnet attached to the rotary wheel is thus attracted by one magnet and repelled at the same time by the magnet on the other side.

Although Conner has made no effort to put the device to any practical purpose, more powerful magnets would provide as much power as a small dynamo.

The fulcrum is operated by trolleys which strike arms extending from the fulcrum. Thus only slight amount of friction must be overcome and two two-inch magnets operate a five-round rotary wheel.

Uniontown Youth Dies Of Gun Wounds

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 12.—
Wounded last Saturday night when he was accused of attempting to break into the home brew cellar of

Frank Shine at Amend Works, George Dennison, 19, died last night in the Uniontown Hospital from a wound in the abdomen. Shine was arrested under a house at Leckrone, where he had hidden for several days without food. At the time of his arrest Shine is said to have admitted the shooting. A charge of murder is to be brought against Shine.

Friends of the victim say that he was not trying to "crack" the beer cellar, as Shine alleged.

Chicago jailers put drunks to work destroying confiscated gun. That's letting the punishment fit the crime.

Atlas Tells Details Of Geologic Resource In Pittsburgh Section

HARRISBURG, July 12.—Do you remember when the Ohio river flowed north to Lake Erie, or when Monongahela river flowed where is now the city center of Pittsburgh? Probably you don't remember because it is estimated to have been about 150,000 years ago. More likely you do remember that a few years ago gas was struck in McKeesport, and you may have wondered how it all worked out. Coal is king in Pittsburgh but do you realize that the great Pittsburgh coal bed no longer is king in Allegheny county? It is estimated that the Upper Freeport coal bed has more than three times as much recoverable coal in Allegheny county as remains in the Pittsburgh bed, in that county. Do you know that drilling to a depth of 3000 feet in the right place should strike the Medina sandstone and might get gas in large quantities? This is the sandstone that has produced much gas in Ohio. Drill holes in California, Texas and Oklahoma have penetrated the earth more than 8000 feet and it could be done here. It would, of course, be a costly experiment if no gas were found.

This is a glimpse into a fairy land of facts in a book about the Pittsburgh district just issued by the bureau of topographic and geologic survey of the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs, according to an announcement made by Secretary of Internal Affairs, James F. Woodward. It is entitled Topographic and Geologic Atlas of Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh Quadrangle.

This book is a volume of 250 pages illustrated with many photographs, maps and drawings, including airplane views of Pittsburgh and McKeesport, and a panorama of Versailles during the gas boom of 1920. The area covered extends from Aspinwall on the north to the Washington county line on the south, and from the point in Pittsburgh on the west to Trafford City on the east.

Field work was begun in 1921 and completed in 1925 under the direction of George H. Ashley, state geologist. The report, written by Meredith E. Johnson, a geologist of the survey bureau, is therefore up to date in its description of coal resources, thickness and character of coal beds and method of mining; the history of development and present extent of the oil and gas pools, including details of the spectacular McKeesport gas pool; the limestone, sandstone, clay and shale resources; the sand and gravel deposits; and the water supply.

Engraved maps printed in colors show the shape and elevation of the surface, the distribution of different geologic groups of rocks, the outcrop of coal and limestone beds, the underground structure of the rocks, the location of mines, quarries, oil and gas wells, and the location of the river as distinguished from its present course. Many selected well records are given and other data of use to drillers.

Although the Pittsburgh coal bed has been mined for 125 years, and 75 per cent of the original quantity has been mined out or irretrievably lost, there yet remains enough to keep up the present annual production of 3,500,000 tons from this small area for twenty-five years more. The reserve of thick Upper Freeport coal, estimated to be 559,000,000 tons, has hardly been touched as yet and assures coal mining in the vicinity of Pittsburgh for many years to come.

The Pittsburgh atlas should be of inestimable value to people in many lines of work, teachers and students of geography and geology, public service corporations, dealers in and owners of land in this area, coal companies, producers of oil and gas, and many others, Woodward said. Copies of this report may be procured from Bureau of Publications, Department of Property and Supplies, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, at $1.00 each.

Gives Suggestions For Avoidance Of Heat Prostrations

Bargain Hunting Instinct Of Women Cause Of Many Heat Prostrations

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—The bargain-hunting instinct in women is the chief cause of many heat prostrations in the opinion of Dr. Joseph B. Wolfe, lecturer on diseases of the heart of Temple University, and director of the Heart Clinic at Samaritan Hospital.

"Keep out of the battle of the bargain-counter if you would avoid heat prostration," he advises.

"I know of several instances," said Dr. Wolfe, "where women who were anxious to save ten cents on a yard of dress material have succeeded in saving their husbands fifty cents for that day, but have made them pay several hundred dollars for a siege of illness and a long period of convalescence following the battle of the bargain counter."

There are other causes of heat prostration and Dr. Wolfe sat them forth in epigrammatic warnings:

"Keep out of stuffy, over-crowded rooms, even if you have to be impolite."

"Parading by amateur soldiers is fraught with danger—and in Philadelphia they parade on the slightest provocation."

"Opening of city fire-plugs helps the children cool off, but the practice is dangerous, as the children are not supervised and are exposed to exhaustive play, accidents and infection."

Dr. Wolfe also repudiated as a fallacy the popular belief that old age brings with it a gradual decay.

"That is not true," he said, "for many investigations have shown that death in the old is like death in the young, that is, due to definite, specific diseases. Since disease, and not old age, therefore, is the cause of death with care and the help of science we may still hope to live to the age of Methusalem."

WOMAN BEATEN

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, July 12.—Beaten on the head with a brick by a negro who seized her as she sat on the steps of a house here, Mrs. Mary Mamula, 62-year-old paperhanger, was taken to South Side hospital today for treatment.

Miller Malonovich, owner of the house and employer of Mrs. Mamula, heard her screams and rushed to her aid.

Post Office Head Proud Of His Culinary Prowess

Will Pay $5,000 to Person Finding "String" in His Rarebit

POSTMASTER GENERAL WALTER F. BROWN, head of "the greatest business institution in the world," as the United States Post Office Department has been called, takes great pride in his ability as a cook. His piece de resistance is Welsh Rarebit and there aren't any strings attached to it when he makes it. In fact, he defies anyone to find a string in it, and is willing to pay $5,000 to the successful person.

Cooking is second nature to the Postmaster General. Therefore it wasn't unnatural that Brown should have had a kitchen installed alongside his suite of private offices with serious intent. It is a small place, but light and airy and large enough to accommodate a stove, electric refrigerator, sink and other equipment.

Of course, the cooking Postmaster is encountering the usual domestic difficulties that befall the monarch of the kitchen. The stove just moved in, and Brown reports that it isn't big enough. He needs one with an oven. Well, you've got to take the bitter with the sweet! By next fall, though, Brown hopes to have all the equipment he wants, so that he can be cooking lunch for himself and his secretaries when he has time.

Here's the famous rarebit recipe:—

Dice three-quarters of a pound of New York or Vermont cheese. Mix thoroughly with the following: Two mustard spoonfuls of dry mustard; one-half teaspoon of dehydrated horseradish; four teaspoonfuls of Worcestershire sauce; a dash of cayenne, a dash of paprika. Pour this over the cheese.

POSTMASTER GENERAL WALTER F. BROWN

Press the juice of one clove of garlic into a blazer or chafing dish, removing the pulp. Throw in a piece of butter about the size of a hickory nut. Cover the bottom of the dish with near beer.

Place over the fire and add the cheese when the butter melts, adding near beer and stirring constantly until the consistency of thick cream is produced. The mixture must never be allowed to bubble or boil.

When the mixture is entirely melted throw in a lightly beaten egg. Stir until very smooth and beginning to thicken. Pour over toast or crackers on hot plates and serve. That's enough for four persons.

Now, follow these directions word for word, because if you don't and your rarebit turns out to be stringy you can't blame the Postmaster General.

Expect 250 At Convention Of Postal Clerks

Wives Of Delegates Will Be Entertained Here By Auxiliary

SIGHTSEEING TOURS
FEATURE OF VISIT

Arrangements for what promises to be one of the largest attended and most successful gatherings of post-office clerks of Pennsylvania were completed at a regular meeting of the New Castle Local No. 170 held Thursday night.

Two hundred and fifty employees of the division of the postal service are expected to come to the city with their wives July 21 and 22 for the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Department of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the organization will meet in separate session.

President Thomas Donegan of the local also the secretary of the state organization told a reporter this morning that plans for entertaining the clerks, their wives and other guests who might be in attendance are in tip-top shape. The speaking program has been drafted and the complete program for the affair is expected to be in the hands of the printer by Monday.

Officials of the local organization said today that no business would be transacted on Sunday. Only the registration committee will be at work that day recording those in attendance so that the regular business session can open without delay early Monday morning.

The Cathedral will be visited on Sunday evening. The clerks will be shown the magnificent lobby, lighting effects and other attractive features of which this city can be proud. The business session Monday morning will be short so that a trip to the local Rieck-McJunkin dairy plant might be enjoyed. Special arrangements have been made by the plant officials so that the clerks will see milk being pasteurized, one of the important sights of the trip through the plant.

Dinner at noon then another business session during the afternoon will be followed by a sightseeing tour about the city. The George Washington Junior High school, Jameson Memorial hospital, Senior High school, Ben Franklin school and other points of interest in the city will be visited and then a quick trip to the Jordan game farm near Harrisburg will be made.

During the convention wives of the delegates will be the guests of the auxiliary of the local. Plans for their part in the program are being made at a meeting this afternoon.

Two of Pennsylvania's representatives to congress will participate in the program. The Hon. J. Howard Swick, Beaver Falls and Hon. Clyde Kelley of Braddock. Kelley is expected to discuss postal legislation in which he has been most interested during the year. He has held congressional rank. Kelley was head of the committee and one of the most active backers in the air-mail project that now has become a permanent government institution. Swick's subject is not known. Other speakers will be officials of the federation both national and state.

Registration of the convention will be located at the Castleton. All sessions will take place in the ball room there.

Fund To Aid Those Who Plan Suicide

New York Has Fund Raised By Newspaper To Aid Those In Distress

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 12.—There is no need of committing suicide in New York just because you are broke.

This was revealed when a large metropolitan newspaper made it known to police and social agencies that it maintained a fund to relieve men and women who were so desperate over lack of money that they contemplated suicide.

And what is more the newspaper gives the money without embarrassing questions or lengthy investigations but of course makes reasonably certain the receiver is in need.

The fund is raised by donations, theatrical benefit and other means. It is used primarily to provide money for Christmas dinners to the poor and for the relief of distressed families.

A special emergency fund is kept available by the editors however, to provide desperate men and women with food and shelter for a few days when attacked by the "blues."

This fund is given to the unfortunate on the word of a policeman or some public or semi-public official. That it has saved many from suicide or crime is attested to by numerous letters of thanks the newspaper receives every month.

With this bid was also a bid of $1800.00 for a patent stoker which will be installed. The stoker is expected to reduce the smoke nuisance, eliminate much of the ash, and save considerable money. Joseph Hartland was awarded the general contract for this job at his bid of $1833.00.

Three contracts for fire escapes and smoke screens were awarded to A. C. Lusk. Fire escapes and screens will be installed on the North Street school at a cost of $1858.00, and on the Lincoln building at a cost of $1236.00. Trio Held Captives In Elevator Shaft

Just what it feels like to be caged. When they had shut the elevator in a dark elevator for nearly an hour and to yell for help until their lungs were exhausted and then to settle back and wait for the repair men to extricate them, was the experience of Miss Sylvia Jones, Ralph Cooper and Eddie Gustafson, all employees of the Lehigh Portland Cement Company in the Greer building.

Wednesday at noon the three persons decided to use the rear elevator in the building. They stepped in and whizzed down to the first floor.

Much to their dismay, the door at the outlet was locked, and such was the case with every other door in the six floors.

When they had shut the elevator guard, all of the doors were automatically locked in the shaft and there they were and would be yet had it not been for the fact that a special elevator repairman happened to be in town.

The repairman was summoned, investigated the locking system and after a short while succeeded in getting the scared but fortunate trio out of captivity.

The group have decided to use the front elevator in the future and are sending in their applications for admission in the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Elevator Passengers.

Do you know this about sugar?

Use this knowledge for better cookery

MANY people might think of sugar only as a sweetener. This is to miss at least half the value of sugar—the developer of natural flavors in good cookery.

If a dash of sugar is added to unbeaten egg-whites, and the two beaten together, the meringue will be lighter than if the egg is beaten before the sugar is added.

Sugar brings out the natural flavors of fruits and berries by softening the fruit acids.

A little sugar makes bitter chocolate mellow and tasteful.

If cereal is cooked with a dash of sugar, an entirely "new" flavor develops. This is the delicate flavor of the cereal that the sugar has brought up so that it can be tasted.

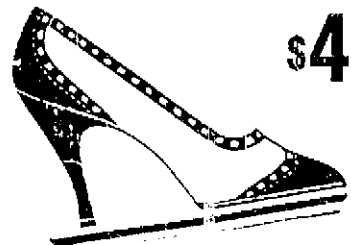

Add a dash of sugar to beets, peas, string beans, lima beans, corn, carrots, parsnips, sweet potatoes, squash, onions, tomatoes, cucumbers, spinach, asparagus, beet greens and celery while they are cooking (preferably in little water). You will find delicious flavors rarely tasted in vegetables before. These are the natural delicate vegetable flavors developed by the sugar. Use sugar flavor to improve the diet and health of the nation. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

Unemployment Is Rare Thing For Icelanders

Nation Has Population Of 100,000 And Could Handle 900,000

NEW SETTLERS NOT WANTED BY GOVT.

REYKJAVIK, July 12.—Iceland has no unemployment problem, not because folks have to work to keep warm up there, but because Iceland is an undeveloped land of great opportunities.

The unemployed of Reykjavik totaled eight men on May 1. Six of them were more than 60 years old and in ill health. The other two said they had just left their jobs, and could get better ones.

Iceland, peopled with only 100,000 inhabitants, could comfortably find accommodation and employment for 900,000, it is estimated. Ever since the United States cut the immigration quotas of Nordic races to the present minimum, politicians and scientists in Scandinavian countries in their effort to find suitable places of settlements for their surplus population have toyed with the idea of persuading Iceland to accept yearly contingents of emigrants from Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland.

Iceland favors the plan but the government is dead against swamping Reykjavik and the few other towns of the island with immigrants. Iceland wants dirt farmers, not men to keep the bright lights of Reykjavik burning. The native Icelanders are good farmers, but not scientific agriculturalists.

Government authorities maintain that Iceland could produce far greater quantities of agricultural products than at present, as the soil and climate are excellent for many crops.

The Icelandic people, who of late have shown a great increase in Nationalistic feeling, are watching with interest the attempt of the Swedish aviators who have been their guests to demonstrate that the most feasible commercial air route between Europe and America lies by way of Greenland and Iceland.

Matthew Gunton To Speak In Oil City

Will Address The Kiwanis Club
Of That City On City Planning

Matthew Gunton, chairman of the zoning commission of this city and the originator of the city planning idea in this city, has been invited to appear in Oil City on Wednesday, July 17, and address the Kiwanis club of that city on the advantages of zoning and also inspect certain plans for various civic improvements contemplated by that community.

Mr. Gunton has accepted the invitation and will address the Kiwanis club of that place on the subject "City Planning, Its Practical Importance." In his address, Mr. Gunton, who has just returned from a three weeks tour in the east in which he visited Boston, Cambridge, Fall River, (his boyhood home), New York, Philadelphia and Washington, D. C., will incorporate the latest ideas in city planning as he saw it in those cities and also the advantages that have accrued to this city as a result of the progress that it has made along those lines.

Mr. Gunton in talking of his trip in the east, stated that all cities are planning for the civic welfare and improvement of their people and communities and it is to such communities, Mr. Gunton says, that the industrial leaders are looking for locations for their expanding business.

Husky Stokers Lose Picturesque Jobs As Old Coal Burning Vessels Pass

(International News Service)
TIBURON, Cal., July 12.—Like the old salt who sailed before the mast, the jobs of picturesque stokers is rapidly passing into the limbo of forgotten things.

"Out of commission!" reads the significant sign tacked on the U. S. coal-burning station at Tiburon.

It heralds the passing of the old coal burning ship, so the days of the husky stoker are over! And those who labored deep in the holds, stripped to the waist, their backs catching the glow of roaring furnace, are now feeding oil in the immaculate engine rooms of modern vessels.

Last of the ships to take coal at the Tiburon station—the mine sweeper Sonoma—is now at Mare Island navy yard being fitted with oil burners.

So today 50,000 tons of coal lay untouched in the bunkers—huge cranes are rusting from lack of use. The old Maryland and Salem, also out of commission, ride lazily at the coaling wharf.

"She's the last of the old coal burners," said a ship-keeper, pointing to the Maryland, now known as the Frederick. "Back in 1905, when she was put in commission, she was one of the classiest battle wagons afloat. But the grand old Maryland—once a proud flagship—is doomed to the graveyard. In a few months she will meet her ignominious fate—sold at auction and scrapped.

In the cobwebbed admiral's quarters aboard the old Maryland is a glass case containing a shovel with this inscription on the blade:

"The governor of Maryland shovelled the first coal aboard this ship with this spade in the year 1905."

Chews At 101; Is Still Good Eater

(International News Service)

ARKANSAS CITY, Kas., July 12.—Temperate habits in eating and chewing tobacco are attributed as the reasons for Moses Hatfield's old age and youthful appearance. He is 101 years, 6 months, old and still chews his tobacco with the gusto of a young man.

Even today he remains up past 2 or 3 o'clock, drinks occasionally. He proudly proclaims that he has had liquor ever since he was old enough to hold a bottle in his hand and says he has never been "dead" drunk. Temperance in his eating habits, Hatfield believes, is more responsible for his long life than anything else. He did not and does not eat at any regular intervals, but the most important things he practices is that he does not eat excessively.

Cow Ends Life To Escape Heel Flies

(International News Service)
BUCKHORN, Ia., July 12.—"Driven to desperation"—how often are these words employed in the drab tale of suicides—they tell the story of the suicide of one of Walter Morehead's cattle here recently.

Heel flies had so tormented the cattle hereabouts that pastures are full of frantic cattle running with wild abandon in an effort to escape the pests. Morehead's animal, in one of these mad rushes, plunged over a high bluff and was killed.

Mr. Hoover has established one record. He has appointed a commission that will make its report before the trouble is over. The Rochester Times-Union.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

The Story Of The World War
59—Flame-Throwers And Poisonous Gas

THE YEAR 1915 WITNESSED THE APPEARANCE OF TWO NEW AND DIABOLIC WEAPONS, INVENTED BY THE GERMANS. THE FIRST WAS THE FLAME-THROWER, WHICH WAS USED FOR THE FIRST TIME IN ALSACE IN FEBRUARY, 1915. THIS WEAPON, WHICH WAS ALMOST AS DANGEROUS TO THE USER AS TO THE INTENDED VICTIMS, WAS COPIED BY THE ALLIES AND TURNED AGAINST ITS INVENTORS.

FOR MORE EFFECTIVE, MORE INSIDIOUS AND EQUALLY HORRIBLE WAS THE USE OF POISONOUS GAS, WHICH WAS DISCHARGED FROM CYLINDERS, WHEN A VERY LIGHT BREEZE WAS BLOWING TOWARD THE ENEMY'S TRENCHES, OR (LATER) FIRED IN SPECIAL SHELLS. GAS WAS FIRST USED AGAINST THE CANADIANS AND FRENCH AROUND YPRES ON APRIL 22, 1915, WITH FRIGHTFUL EFFECT.

TYPES OF GAS MASKS.

THE ALLIES AT ONCE TOOK STEPS TO COMBAT THIS NEW AND DREADFUL MENACE, AND THE RESULT WAS THE DEVELOPMENT OF VARIOUS TYPES OF MASKS AND RESPIRATORS DESIGNED TO OFFSET THE EFFECTS OF THE DEADLY CHEMICAL VAPOR. IT WAS NOT LONG BEFORE THE ALLIES ALSO RESORTED TO THE USE OF GAS, AND GAVE THE GERMANS A TASTE OF THEIR OWN MEDICINE.

EVERY SOLDIER AT THE FRONT AND ALL CIVILIANS STILL LIVING IN VILLAGES WITHIN THE "GAS ZONE" (EVEN HORSES AND DOGS) WERE PROVIDED WITH MASKS WHICH WERE CARRIED AT ALL TIMES AND DONNED WHEN THE GAS ALARM WAS SOUNDED.

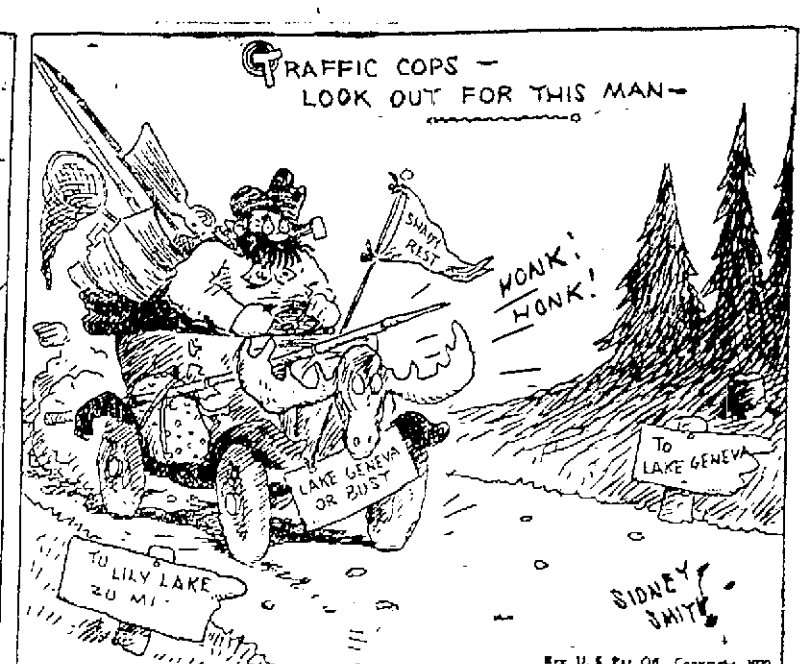

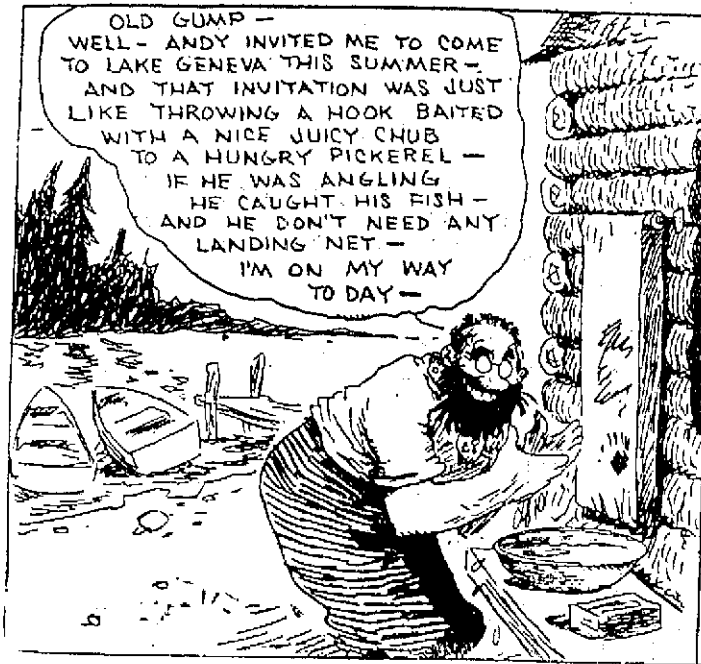

TOMORROW—CAMOUFLAGE.

Chicago Rangers Play Italians

Maud Nelson Olsen Female 'Babe Ruth' To Appear In Lineup

ITALIANS ALSO MEET WAMPUM

By ED. FRITZ
Girls will be boys, or in other words, if they cannot be boys they will capture the boys' habits and Saturday afternoon verification of the foregoing can be ascertained should one care to travel to Centennial field where the Chicago Ranger girls clash with the I. A. A. ball team in the first of a twin bill. The second half of the day's baseball menu will be furnished by the Wampum-Italian I. A. A. teams in a regular Lawrence County loop set.

According to Tullie Calazza, the well known man about town, the Chicago Rangers, with Maud Nelson Olsen, female "Babe Ruth" will arrive in New Castle, Friday evening. They will stop at one of the hotels and on the following day will attempt to lower the colors of the I. A. A. which will use Shields as a pitcher and Diffey behind the bat.

This will be the first game here between girls and boys in several years. The game will start at 2:15 p. m. D. S. T.

The second tilt will immediately follow and as the Italians are going fast Wampum can expect a hard battle.

Considerable rivalry exists between the two teams. Mando or Brakovich will pitch and Butchelli, catch for Wampum.

The Italians will not name their battery for the second game until time for the umpires to shout "play ball."

Elkhart Hurt, Must Secure New Battle

Jack Chief Elkhart will not oppose Henry Firpo at the Jolly bowl Monday night having received a long gash in his lower lip, Wednesday night in a bout with Frankie Mason at Indianapolis and he has been removed from the main bout, it was stated today.

News of the injury did not reach this city until two a. m. today and it may be difficult to secure a worthy opponent for Firpo. Should a good opponent and one able to give Firpo a thorough testing not be found an entire new main bout will be substituted. This knocks out the desired Firpo-Elkhart battle.

Efforts are under way to secure Johnny Burns, Pacific coast middleweight who whipped Ted Ross in a main bout, Wednesday night at Chicago. It is not known if Burns can be secured. He may have been bruised up in the fight. He is rated better than Elkhart according to Chicago reports received early today.

Scarney Meets Haymaker.

Harold Scarney, Niles candidate for the heavyweight prominence which all youthful 180 pounders crave, will tackle Russell Haymaker of Canada. According to Jimmy Dunn, this boy Greenwood, now aging gray, told him that Haymaker has not lost a fight since he started. Whenever heavyweights start fans can expect three things: "A one-round kayo." If not that, a vicious slambang fight and again, if not that, a slow fight. There's no use kidding anybody along that line because the heavies on account of their size are slower than lighter boys. This is to be expected. And half of the "cases" we have been called in to witness have firmly proved to us that they can't stand the gaff like the little boys. But, knowing the pulse of the public, the fans must have their knockdowns every now and then. Look for ten Monday.

Nick Martin, Cleveland, who has been fighting as a 168-pounder and who has enjoyed a weight handicap over almost every opponent he has met here, has been delegated to shoot wallop with Walter Pickard, the German-Irishman of Youngstown, who weighs 171. Some believe Martin is smarter than Pickard but we have always had the conception that Martin was long on toughness and short on keen thinking. They can punch and it is the PUNCH that the fans want nowadays. Pete Mazoe, ex-U. S. Olympic champion, and Paul Balut, 122, will meet and the bowl roof will be raised when the first four-round slambang bout to be arranged today is called forth by Pete Capitola's hammer and bell.

Cincinnati shutout the Braves. This for those charitable souls who like the underdogs.

Nothing of importance in the American, due to the fact that rain kept both the Yankees and Athletics indoors.

Colored Stars Not Playing In League

Withdrew When It Is Found Impossible To Enlist Players Here

As it was impossible to secure a lineup of players from Lawrence County alone, the National Radiator Colored Stars have withdrawn from the Lawrence county baseball league. They are now playing independent ball.

Other teams are assured stiff opposition. They desire to book games with the best of teams in western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio. Those wishing to schedule games have been asked to call H. Bradley, R. D. 6, Box 44, Bell phone 2300.

Radiator Stars To Meet Farrell At Centennial

Interest Is Keen For Both Have Record; Game Starts At 6 O'clock

A strong lineup will be presented by the National Radiator Colored Stars when they face the Farrell Grays at Centennial field here on Monday evening, July 15 at 6 o'clock.

In Lucas and Giles, the stars have two of the best ball players in Lawrence county. Long, who plays shortstop, has been in service with the Brown Stars for some time and is known for his keen hitting.

The Farrell Grays will bring with them no weak aggregation to oppose the local boys, and interest in the game is keen.

National Colored Radiator Stars Revamp Team With New Faces

National Radiator Stars and the Farrell Grays, colored aggregations, will clash Monday evening at 6 p. m., daylight savings time, at Centennial Field. It will be the first game between two colored baseball teams this season in this city.

The Stars were forced to withdraw from the City-County loop owing to several players leaving the team but during the past few days the team has been revamped and the Stars now have what they believe to be a strong outfit.

Many of the Farrell Grays formerly played here, according to reports. All the supreme court need do to make its embargo against pacifists absolute is to extend its jurisdiction to the stork.

State Commission May Ban Schmeling

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 12.—Commissioner Harry T. Farrell of the Pennsylvania athletic commission, today indicated that the Keystone state will join hands with the New York boxing commission in the suspension of Max Schmeling. Barring of the German fighter by the New York body had led to rumors that Schmeling's proposed bout with Jack Sharkey would be shifted to Pennsylvania because of the Schmeling-Bulow vendetta.

"Our commission has a working agreement with New York and on notice of the Schmeling ban in that state board will follow in line," Farrell said.

CAMBRIDGE AND OXFORD TO CLASH IN ANNUAL MEET

(International News Service)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 12.—At least ten thousand track enthusiasts were expected here tomorrow afternoon when Oxford and Cambridge battle a united Harvard and Yale in the ninth annual track and field meet between the teams of the two countries.

Today, while practice of the Athletes of John Bull and Uncle Sam continued in Harvard stadium, the scene of the meet, there seemed to be no distinct favorite, although the Yanks were on fighting edge.

Outstanding favorites to win are Charley Engle, Yale, in the 220; R. Leigh-Wood of Oxford in the quarter-mile; C. E. R. Green, Cambridge in the mile; Jimmy Reid in the two miles; Sid Keiselhorst of Yale in the low hurdles; Fred Sturdy of Yale in the pole vault and C. E. S. Gordon of Oxford in the high jump.

Ellwood City Man Is Granted Patent

(Special To The News) WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12.—Charles A. Adams of Ellwood City has been granted the patent rights on a novel roller for gravity carriers, and James Clyde Rainey of Grove City has been awarded the rights on a new switch, the United States patent office announces.

Adams filed for the rights to his invention February 23, 1924, and they were granted July 9, 1928, when he assigned them to the Mathews Gravity Carrier Company of Ellwood City. The roller for gravity carriers is thus described in the official patent gazette:

The combination of a tubular gravity carrier roller, an anti-friction cage arranged in the end of the roller, a head generally U-shaped in cross-section between said cage and the end of the roller, and supporting said roller, the head comprising inner and outer circular webs connected by a transverse portion, said head opening out from the end of the roller and with its outer webbed portion bent inwardly then outwardly forming an annular recess outwardly open in its outer surface, the diameter of which is less than the diameter of the roller elsewhere, the end of the roller fitting over the inwardly bent surface of the head and having the end edge of the metal of the roller seated against the wall of said recess.

Rainey applied for the rights on the switch March 26, 1929, and was granted them July 9 of this year. He has not yet assigned the rights.

The patent gazette describes Rainey's switch as follows:

A switch including a body block, spaced terminals carried thereby, levers pivoted upon the block and movable to closed position engaging said terminals respectively, a pivoted spring-returned trip member engageable at its outer end for swinging the inner end of said member to selectively kick said levers to open position, and means for locking the levers in open position.

The Latest "Fastest Human"

By QUIN HALL

A splendid legged, 20-year-old youngster with a shock of brown hair is now being referred to—and rightly so—as the fastest human who ever pulled on a pair of spiked shoes.

Competing with the fastest men ever brought together in an American track event, George Simpson, of Ohio State University, whizzed down the hundred yard stretch in the national collegiate track and field championship meet, held at Stagg Field recently, in 9.2-5 seconds! That is a fifth of a second off the official world's mark which has stood for years.

When he completed that particular century, Simpson had accomplished something which the best sprinters in the world have been attempting for a period of twenty-three years. A ever since the old mark was made by Dan Kelly on June 23, 1896. There was no favoring wind to speed young Simpson along and he was clocked by five watches. To of the timers caught him in .09 3-10 and three checked his in .09 4-10. Engineers were hurriedly sent out to inch off the distance and it was found to be exactly one hundred yards.

In establishing the new mark, the Buckeye Flash met worthy foes in Claude Bracey (the Elsie Flyer) hailing from Rice Institute, and Eddie Tolan, famous negro sprinter from the University of Michigan.

Simpson started his climb to track fame by request. A high school coach looking over the available timber noted Simpson's spindly legs and frail frame. The coach called George out of the line-up and told him that he ought to be able to run. The youngster quickly demonstrated that the coach was a good judge of sprint material.

Even while traveling at top speed, Simpson's motions seem effortless. He is especially modest and there is a story to the effect that, while he has won almost enough watches to start a jewelry store, he hasn't a single timepiece to his name. Every time he wins one, he gives it to a friend as a souvenir of the occasion.

the money separately, he found a new bill sticking between two of the old style bills. She was informed of her error before she had left the place, however.

New Bills Being Circulated, Survey Of Merchants Shows Foreign War Vets Visit Warren Post

Members of the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, were in Warren, O., last evening, where they paid a visit to the Warren Post and witnessed initiation ceremonies which were staged in ceremonial form.

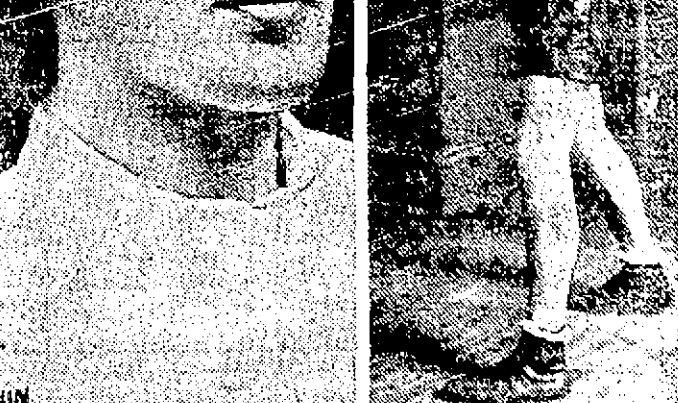

A big open initiation is planned by the McBride Post in the fall, to which the public is invited to attend. Installation of a Pup Tent of Cookies is also planned.

A news representative saw one man hand out two new bills in payment for an article in a local store. They are also being received in payment of bills by the public utilities companies and others.

Many of those received have been secured by employees of these concerns and held as souvenirs.

An instance of how easily it is to lose track of the new money among other bills, has already been noted. A woman tendered several bills in payment for a debt at one local establishment and as the clerk counted out

Light-Heavy Title May Shift

If determination in training means anything when the boys get into the ring, you'll see plenty of action when James Braddock, right, of Jersey City, N. J., tries to knock Tommy Loughran's, left, light heavyweight crown from the Quaker City boy's dome, at the Yankee Stadium in New York. Many there are who give the Jersey boy the best of the argument and say he can do it. But, don't forget, Tommy is wise in the ways of the ring and keeps a mighty level head on his shoulders, besides being clever with his mitts.

Paulino Suffers From Battering

Wears Bruised Appearance And Carries Left Arm In Sling

WOODCHOPPER MAY SEEK EASIER BOUTS

By DAVIS J. WALSH

Sports Editor International News Service NEW YORK, July 12.—Maybe this Schmelling can't punch the right time on a clock. Maybe there were two burns in the ring on the night of June 27 and he was practically both of them. And maybe it wouldn't be a second class idea for the couple-of-bums school of fight observers to drop in on Paulino at his hotel this morning, fifteen full days after the fight, and receive the mute, accusing evidence of a visage that is said to bear still its resemblance to an abused cantaloupe.

A friend of Paulino's, accorded a privilege that has been denied other visitors since the bout, called on the fighter last night, and, according to his story, found him with the left side of his face bruised and distorted and his left arm in a sling.

This is the arm that was broken twice in ring accidents and apparently was almost broken again by stopping Schmelling's punches. It has been virtually useless since the fight, it is said, but no less so than the fighter's left eye, which had parried so cleverly every right cross Schmelling let go in the last five rounds.

Quicker a portrait artist, one might never suspect that its subject was known, prior to June 27, as the iron man of boxing.

Loses His Joviality

Greater still, it seems, was the damage done to the man's spirit. Once a jovial, rollicking character, he now is said to be morose and incommunicative, refusing to see any but trusted intimates. Formerly a notorious optimist, he is now clearly a realist, of leaving America and seeking fights where the going might be less painful. Offhand, it might seem that Schmelling has something on his punch beside the wind that follows it. No coo-and-dash puncher could do these things to a man like Paulino.

The couple-of-bums school knows better, however. Wasn't Turney simply the better of two bums when he beat Dempsey and by the way, who did Dempsey ever lick? The couple-of-bums school always knows better. At the battle of Gettysburg, for example, any good army would have taken both sides in the same afternoon.

It is well to hear them tell it, that James J. Braddock doesn't get Schmelling in the ring with him. Braddock is only a moderately successful light heavyweight but he is a straight puncher with his right hand and they have discovered that this kind will spread the man all over like a lot of fertilizer. For the same reason, they made an identical claim for Benny Touchstone, a second rate heavyweight. Sharkey? No, he won't do. Sharkey is a hooker. Loughran? Sure Loughran would stab him stupid in five rounds.

Loughran Is Smart

If there is the slightest chance to be wrong, the couple-of-bums school is likely to take it. However, it may be that they are right in this case, just by way of novelty. The law of averages is with them, anyhow, and I will admit that Loughran's smartness might make a lot of them look dumb. Schmelling, indeed, knowing all too little about it myself, the only thing I won't admit

Mary Celeste's Fate Now Seen Salvage Scheme

Maritime Mystery Explained As Hoax By Man Who Spent Life Tracing Matter

CREW DESERTED TO GET PRIZE MONEY

By GEORGE AXELSSON
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
PARIS, July 12.—The 57-year-old mystery surrounding the fate of the American brig Mary Celeste—most famous of sea mysteries—has now been explained as a pure hoax to obtain salvage money. Lawrence J. Keating, who has devoted a lifetime to solving the mystery, has written a book on the subject, containing fully acceptable proofs.

Sailors of many generations have crossed themselves and looked sideways when the name of the ill-fated brig Mary Celeste was mentioned. The flying Dutchman held no more terror for the old sailors than did the brig.

The Mary Celeste left New York in the fall of 1872 bound for Gibraltar, with a crew of ten, including the captain's wife. On December 4, the ship was found derelict and abandoned near Gibraltar by the British barkentine Del Gratia.

No Bodies Found.
No trace was found of bodies, the ship's safe contained many valuables showing that she had not been plundered, there was a meal set out in the cabin, with hot tea, and the stove was still warm from cooking.

Elaborate inquiries held at Gibraltar never shed any light on the mystery. The captain of the Del Gratia remained firm in his statements regarding the finding of the Mary Celeste, and he was stoutly supported by his crew.

Mr. Keating produces an entirely new mass of evidence, collected from every possible source in order to solve the mystery. Making use of statements by one Pemberton, alleged survivor of the Mary Celeste, he maintains that the ship was never abandoned.

When the Del Gratia sighted her, there were four men on board, all quietly transferred to the Del Gratia. These men subsequently held their tongues in the hopes of getting part of the salvage money.

In fact, three of these men had previously been members of the Del Gratia crew. The latter ship was docked close to the Mary Celeste in New York, Mr. Keating shows. Both were bound for Gibraltar, and as the Mary Celeste was short-handed, the captain of the Del Gratia loaned three of his men. The two captains made an agreement to meet at the Azores on the way.

The New Version.
This is what happened to the Mary Celeste, according to Mr. Keating's version: The captain's wife had a piano which broke loose in a heavy sea and crushed her to death.

The captain, a bit "queer" before, now became insane. He accused the mate, a huge man named Hullock, known as the Baltimore Bully, of murdering her. Near the Azores, the captain jumped overboard.

Hullock was attacked by a man named Venholdt, a shagbated land-lubber. In the struggle, Venholdt was hurled overboard. At the Azores, Hullock and two sailors deserted, from fear of being accused of mutiny and murder.

Four men remained, three of whom were original members of the Del Gratia crew. When the latter ship came up with the Mary Celeste, west of Gibraltar, she took the four survivors and placed a prize crew of her own on board.

Moorhouse, the captain of the Del Gratia, then concocted a mystery tale to validate a salvage claim, according to Keating.
